KLANSMAN ASKS SESSION WITH OFFICIAL

Denies that Operations of Hooded Gang Were Directed by Klu Klux

SEVERAL ARE NAMED

McKoin, Former Mayor of Mer Rouge and Others Are Accused

Bastrop, La., Jan. 12.—States Attorneys announced early today that Captain Skpwith exalted cyclops of the Morehouse parish Ku Klux Klan has requested a conference with Attorney General A. V. Cocco and his assistants in connection with the hooded band atrocities in this parish.

Robert L. Dade, mayor of Mer Rouge, testified in the open court investigation of masked band depredations in Morehouse parish that one Ku Klux Klan raid in which he participated he wore a black mask. He declared all the other members of the party wore white hoods.

On that occasion Dade said the party was investigating a report that a negro near Stanley, La. was operating a gambling house in which white persons were permitted to gamble with negroes.

Dade told of the band having held up and lectured Watt Daniel, Harry Neelies and W. C. Andrews, Mer Rouge citizens.

Kelley Harp, who followed Dade on the witness stand, admitted he also was in the Klan band on that night and that he wore a black mask.

Harp said "members of the Klan" furnished him with that request.

Skpwith is said to have requested the conference in order to go into the full details of the operation of the Morehouse Klan since its organization and at the same time to establish that the operations of the black-hooded band was not under supervision of the Klan.

Assistant Attorney-General Guyon confirmed the report that Capt. Skpwith had made overtures to the Attorney-General's staff and said that the Klansman's request would be granted. No date was fixed for the conference. It is probable it will be soon.

Robert L. Dade, mayor of Mer Rouge, today named Dr. B. M. McKoin, Capt. Skpwith, Kelly Harp and Edward Ivey as members of a Ku Klux Klan body which held up and disarmed Watt Daniel, Harry Andrews and another Mer Rouge citizen near Gallion, La., several months prior to the kidnapping and murder of Daniel and T. F. Richards last August.

Lambs Fleeced of $400,000,000 in 1922; Wall Street "Shepherd" Warns Suckers

BY EDWARD THIERRY
NEA Service Staff Writer
New York, Jan. 12.—"America spent $400,000,000 for fake stocks last year."

That is the estimate of Charles M. Minton, the "shepherd of Wall Street." He is head of the Minton Brokers' Investigating bureau, and his job is to keep track of crooked brokers and stock salesmen for the big exchanges.

"The average American with a little money laid by is the biggest sucker in the world," says Minton. "Why? Easy—because they don't heed warnings. They get skinned—then they wonder, and when it's too late they listen to advice."

Stock swindlers are being operated in every big city, and in many small ones, he says. He declares he can name at least 150 crooked houses in New York.

CHARLES M. MINTON.

DON'TS FOR SUCKERS

Charles M. Minton, "shepherd of Wall Street," offers this advice to people with money to invest.

Don't expect to get rich overnight. Don't listen to promises of quick dividends.

Don't buy stock from a salesman without investigating.

Don't speculate with a broker if you aren't sure he is reputable.

Don't think you know it all; ask advice before you get skinned.

SPUD EXPERTS AT WORK ON MARKET PLAN

Representatives from Seven

sion at St. Paul

PRICE SLUMPS HEAVILY

Increase in Acreage Is 18 Per Cent, Decrease in Price
36 Per Cent

St. Paul, Jan. 12.—Marketing directors and commissioners of agriculture from the seven producing states of the Northwest are meeting here today to form a policy of co-operative marketing of the lowly spud.

Representatives from potato marketing associations in the states concerned and from the United States Department of Agriculture and the Federal Reserve bank are also here. The states represented are both Dakota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Montana.

"Something must be done to the potato growing branch of the agricultural industry in these Northwestern states," declared Hugh H. Hughes, Minnesota director of markets. Mr. Hughes said the potato acreage of the nation has increased 18 per cent since 1920; 36 per cent of this in these seven states. At the same time the price of potatoes has gone down 34 per cent.

TWO GAMBLING SUITS FILED

States Attorney Asks Abatement of Nuisance

Injunction suits to abate alleged gambling nuisances have been filed in district court by States Attorney E. S. Allen. The papers were signed by Judge Fred Janssens at Jamestown. One purpose, was explained, was that the mortgage rate would not be increased or money withdrawn from the state, and also because of the theory that the revenue from the income tax would be increased both by the increase in rate on individuals and by removing many deductions now permitted.

Among the items proposed to be exempted are: proceeds of life insurance policies and contracts paid upon death of insured; amount received as a return of premiums on endowment and annuity contracts; value of property acquired by gift, bequest (but the income from such property shall be taxed); interest upon bonds, warrants, etc. of U. S. or state or sub-divisions; workmen's compensation; salaries of U. S. employees; income from deposits in North Dakota banks and from loans on North Dakota real estate when payable to a foreign corporation.

Sub-Committee Named
Following the outline of the bill before the joint tax committee, sub-committees of five were named, including Chairman Thorson of the senate committee and Chairman Jardine of the house committee, to work over the measure and report to the whole committee. The sub-committee began discussion of the bill with Gordon V. Caz, income tax attorney for the state department, and may be in position to report soon.

Proposed to Reduce State General Fund Property Levy
Through This Method

RATES ARE EXPLAINED

New Measure Before Committee Would Raise $1,500,000
To $2,000,000 a Year

BILL INTRODUCED.
Senator Thorson, this afternoon, introduced in the senate the income tax bill prepared by the state tax commission. The bill was already before the joint tax committee and the house and senate for brief discussion. The bill was referred to the committee on taxes.

In income tax law designed to bring half the amount raised by the present state general property tax was before the legislative committee on tax and tax laws today, proposed by the state tax commission's office.

The proposed law was explained in detail to the committee in joint session last night by representatives of the tax commission's office.

The proposed law anticipates revenue of $1,500,000 a year to $2,000,000 a year, which would cut the general fund levy of about $3,000,000 in half or more, Lyman A. Baker, of the tax commission's office, informed the committee.

A tax of 3 or 3-1/2 on corporation net income and a graduated tax of 1 to 6 percent on individual income above exemptions was suggested. A 5 percent corporation tax, it was estimated, would raise $700,000 to $800,000 in normal year and the individual income tax $800,000 to $1,200,000, it was estimated.

The bill follows the line of model income tax law drawn by the National Tax Association which is being urged for passage in all states in order that property shall not be taxed twice or any property escape taxation, Mr. Baker said.

The individual rates proposed in the bill are: on net income above exemptions and not in excess of $2,000, a tax of one percent; income $2,000 to $4,000, tax 2 percent; income $4,000 to $6,000, tax 3 percent; income $6,000 to $8,000, tax 4 percent; income $8,000 to $10,000, tax 5 percent; net income above $10,000, tax of 5 percent.

Exemptions would be at present—$1,000 for single person, $2,000 for a married person with $200 for each dependent.

Under the bill, a single person with an income of $2,000 a year would pay a tax of 1 percent on $1,000, or $10. A married person with a like income would pay nothing.

A single person with an income of $10,000 a year would pay 5 percent rate on $9,000, or $450 a year. A married person would pay $400 a year.

There are four main defects in the present income tax law of the state, the legislators were told. First there are too many exemptions, particularly bank deposits, income from loans on mortgages; second, the personal property off-set, by which one can pay income taxes with a personal property tax receipt; third, the rates are too low compared to cost of collection; fourth, the provision with respect to corporations doing an interstate business is not clear, there now being a disputed claim of $100,000 with such a corporation.

The state income tax would, it was explained, be in addition to the federal income tax.

Non-residents Exempt
It was provided in the measure that non-resident individuals would not be subject to the tax, the intent being not to tax income derived particularly from farm mortgages made in North Dakota by persons living outside the state. One purpose, was explained, was that the mortgage rate would not be increased or money withdrawn from the state, and also because of the theory that the revenue from the income tax would be increased both by the increase in rate on individuals and by removing many deductions now permitted.

Among the items proposed to be exempted are: proceeds of life insurance policies and contracts paid upon death of insured; amount received as a return of premiums on endowment and annuity contracts; value of property acquired by gift, bequest (but the income from such property shall be taxed); interest upon bonds, warrants, etc. of U. S. or state or sub-divisions; workmen's compensation; salaries of U. S. employees; income from deposits in North Dakota banks and from loans on North Dakota real estate when payable to a foreign corporation.

Following the outline of the bill before the joint tax committee, sub-committees of five were named, including Chairman Thorson of the senate committee and Chairman Jardine of the house committee, to work over the measure and report to the whole committee. The sub-committee began discussion of the bill with Gordon V. Caz, income tax attorney for the state department, and may be in position to report soon.

RELIEF ASKED FOR GROWER IN THE NORTHWEST

House Adopts Resolution
Stating that Wheat Grower
Has Suffered Injustice

SOME BILLS ARE KILLED

"Robinson Bills" Are Reported For Indefinite Postponement by Judiciary

The house of representatives went on record this afternoon as favoring action by the National Congress for emergency relief for wheat growers of the Northwest, when it adopted the concurrent resolutions offered by Rep. Jackson, Independent, Ramsey county.

In adopting the resolution the house declared that injustice was done to the wheat grower in that the fixed price of wheat during the war was less than the price it would have sold at without price-fixing while the price on things the farmer bought was not fixed, declared the principle of government aid to industry such as provided in the Each-Commins railroad law and ship subsidy was consonant with American principles, declared recognition of the fallacy of "a general policy of price-fixing in times of peace except to correct an injustice done to a large portion of our population" and memorialized Congress for legislation but declared it supported no specific legislation now pending before congress.

Rep. Voel, Nonpartisan, McLean, declared when the resolution came before the house on report of the state affairs committee that the purpose of the resolution was to sidetrack and out-and-out declaration in favor of price-fixing by the government on wheat.

Rep. Jackson denied this, asserting the purpose was to build up a case based on facts, to show Congress that the condition of the wheat farmer of the Northwest is different than that of other lines of industry, that he has been discriminated against and that it was right that people to whom he had contributed under such discrimination now contribute to him.

Rep. Twichell, chairman of the state affairs committee, said the resolution had the unanimous approval of the committee, and that the majority present at the meeting when approval was voted were Nonpartisans. Following action on this resolution the house indefinitely postponed a resolution of Rep. Rustad declaring in favor of a fixed minimum price on wheat.

Monument Bill Killed.
The house received its first committee reports on bills and quickly killed six of them in short order. Several were bills supported by Senator Judge Robinson and introduced by Rep. Paul Johnson. Because the judiciary committee felt that at this time the state could spend money to better advantage than by placing a memorial stone in the Washington

The bill appropriates six million nine hundred ninety-eight thousand dollars for work during the next year and in addition authorizes the secretary of war to incur obligations on contracts to the amount of $10,501,200.

Because of this consideration of the measure was postponed.

DIGNIFIED LEGISLATORS APPOINTED PAGES AND MESSENGERS OF THIRD HOUSE IN BIENNIAL FUN FESTIVAL

Organization Completed with Log-Rolling and Hot Political Battles in which Mose Rosensweig Emerges as Speaker
And Then Finds Fun in Naming Senators and Representatives as Employees

If you never were a buck private and had a second lieutenant order you around, and then when you got back in civilian life found the second lieutenant was working for you—if you've never had this fun nor saw a worm turn—perhaps you'll not appreciate the fun the third house had when it organized in the state capital late yesterday.

For the first thing the speaker of the third house did, after the employees of the legislature who compromise this body, had organized, was to name six senators and three representatives as pages, messengers and a sergeant-at-arms.

There was dignified Senator Ruch of Fargo showing amazing speed in answering the tap-tap of a member of the third house calling for a page; there was Lafe Twichell without his cigar carrying a lead pencil to a member; there was Senator Frank Ployhar standing at attention as sergeant-at-arms, and, to crown it all, there was Speaker Mose Rosensweig calling with lordly gesture upon Representative Truhsch of Valley City to bring him a glass of water—and getting it.

It was a lot of fun to turn tables on the all-powerful senators and representatives. It was a triumph for Mose Rosensweig. Mose has been page, messenger boy, assistant clerk, messenger boy, assistant clerk and about everything that takes lots of orders in the legislature. "World's time he was the speaker of the third house. He demanded service, and got it from his bosses of every day life, who showed they were good sports."

His Triumph Threatened
The day of triumph of Mose was threatened before it was well started however. After diligently campaigning and calling numerous caucuses in his campaign for speaker of the third house Mose was "jobbed." Walt Cushing, a normal times editor of the Beach Advance and now chief clerk of the house, and cunning in politics, and Ernie Warner, secretary of the board of administration did it.

They put a woman—a pretty woman—up against Mose. They jobbed him when they rushed through the rules of the 1885 session of the third house which gave the speaker 51 per cent of the power. Mose got 25 votes to his opponent's eight, but the speaker declared Mrs. Florence Wallace elected. Mose was crestfallen. His face dropped and he crouched down in his seat. Mrs. Wallace ascended the rostrum—and then did the gracious thing. She resigned and asked the third house to unanimously elect Mose. The house could not refuse her request. Mose brightened, a smile spread from ear to ear, and Mose was so eager to get to the speaker's chair that he met the oncoming escort of lady stenographers with open arms.

Rise Job, Says Mose.
"You're here to see the first and second house, and good laws," declared Mose.

EXPERT URGES TRAINED MEN TO EMIGRATE

America Offers Greater Opportunity to Qualified Than To Unskilled Labor

Stockholm, Jan. 12.—The emigration from Sweden of highly qualified engineers, expert foresters and agriculturalists, of especially trained industrial workmen rather than of unskilled laborers and ordinary farmers, is recommended by Dr. Adrian Molin, an authority on the subject of emigration. Since there must be emigration of some kind, argues Dr. Molin, it would be better for the home country, and would insure greater success for the emigrants themselves, if those who establish a new domicile in America and elsewhere were persons of professional or technical equipment.

Swedish statistics show that, between the ages of 15 and 50, there are now 200,000 more persons engaged in gainful occupations than there were in 1913. This surplus has been taken care of partly by increased work in the industrial world, and partly by emigration, while the remainder, about 50,000 at the end of 1922, are unemployed and must to a certain extent be supported by the state.

One movement toward providing more employment is the settlement and exploitation of undeveloped crown and church lands, especially in the northern districts, but the success has so far been doubtful, and the opponents of the plan point out that an increase in the number of farmers will eventually mean a smaller income per capita.

Dr. Molin thinks that the time is ripe for government investigation of emigration with a view toward its control. He deplores the haphazard methods which at present obtain in most countries. Thus, for example, industrial workers often emigrate and try their fortunes at farming, adding their own inexperience to the difficulties of work under new conditions in a new country. He also considers it unwise for persons accustomed to a cold or temperate climate to undertake hard physical labor in a tropical country.

American immigration laws will in the future, it is believed, restrict the stream of emigrants from Sweden.

STATE OF SEIGE

Essen, Germany, Jan. 12.—General Degoutte today issued a proclamation from Duesseldorf establishing a state of siege throughout the newly occupied territory.

The German laws, it was stipulated, would remain in force.

(By the Associated Press.)
Paris, Jan. 12.—France at last has a grip upon the "productive guarantee" she has sought from Germany and has served notice through her premier, that she is prepared to extend her holdings if economic occupation of Essen does not yield satisfactory results.

It was understood here today in fact that another Ruhr zone would be subjected to "invisible occupation" within three days.

Premier Poincare in his statement in the chamber of deputies warned the nation not to expect the opening of the Ruhr treasure house would be followed immediately by a flood of gold. He asserted it probably would be sometime before the control commission on efforts could be noticeably productive.

Make Evacuations.
The Ruhr banks, Le Matin says have formed a committee of the Coal Syndicate, by removing their securities and most of their deposits it is reported that most of the evasions have been foreseen and the measures have been prepared which will punish such acts and frustrate the Germans' purpose.

If the newspapers reflect public opinion yesterday was undoubtedly regarded as a red letter day by the majority of Frenchmen. No mitigations for France's stand are noticeable except among the radical critics of the government who do not believe that the firm policy of Poincare can have beneficial results.

The stock markets, are nowhere affected unfavorably and the franc shows a tendency to increase in value.

FRANCE CONDEMNED.
London, Jan. 12.—An unmistakable feeling of relief that the first hours of France's Ruhr adventure passed without a breach of the peace was evident here today.

Although the French movement continued to be widely condemned and deplored there is no general desire to see Great Britain's ally involved in conditions which would seriously add to her burdens and above all which would lead to bloodshed.

This attitude is reflected in some of the comments in the morning newspapers which mention with a approving, the conciliatory tone of General Degoutte's proclamation to the Ruhr valley inhabitants.

The newspapers also endorse such indication of British good will as France's decision to allow the French troops to cross the British Rhine zone.

Although a majority of the press opposed any operation by Great Britain in the Ruhr and criticizes any what the papers regard as a serious French blunder it cannot be ignored that there exists in Great Britain strong anti-German sentiment and it is unlikely that there would be considerable if secret popular satisfaction if France's contention that Germany is bluffing about her inability to pay be proved by the outcome of events.

ENTRENCHED TOGETHER.

London, Jan. 12.—The serious aspect of the French and German fighting shows a common enemy on frozen shores on the Rhine, exposed from today's developments, a topsy turvy European situation, a result of the Lithuanian advance on Memel.

The troops, composed for the most part of Lithuanians and French troops entrenched in the outskirts of the city, will resist the Lithuanian raiders, according to agencies receiving here.

The British government has associated itself with the French in protesting to Lithuania on the advance on Memel and a British cruiser has been dispatched thither.

40,000 RETURN TO WORK.
Essen, Germany, Jan. 12.—The 40,000 employees of the Krupp plant here went to work this morning as usual, according to information officially supplied to the French economic relations by German authorities.

Strikers are reported in Bochum, but the percentage of strikers small, it was declared.

The French have moved their posts to Gelsenkirchen three miles northeast of Essen and to Belyve miles southeast.

Lambs Fleeced of $400,000,000 in 1922; Wall Street "Shepherd" Warns Suckers

BY EDWARD THIERRY
NEA Service Staff Writer
New York, Jan. 12.—"America spent $400,000,000 for fake stocks last year."

That is the estimate of Charles M. Minton, the "shepherd of Wall Street." He is head of the Minton Brothers' Investigating bureau, and his job is to keep track of crooked brokers and stock salesmen for the big exchanges.

"The average American with a little money laid by is the biggest sucker in the world," says Minton. "Why? Easy—because they don't heed warnings. They get skinned—then they holler, and when it's too late they listen to advice."

Stock swindles are being operated in every big city, and in many small ones, he says. He declares he can name at least 150 crooked houses in New York.

"Men are bigger suckers than women," said Minton. "More of them fall, I mean. Women are more conservative—but when the fall they fall harder. I know one who just lost $80,000 in a fake stock deal."

"Oil stocks used to be the favorite medium of gyp artists. Next came mining stocks. These are pretty well played out now. New schemes are being hatched all the time. Radio is now being used to tap suckers."

"There seems to be as many clever crooks doing business as ever. It is hard to get the goods on bucket shops—the crooked brokers who accept orders and never execute them. They put your orders on their cuffs—and pocket the money."

"Most suckers are fleeced by gyp houses selling handsome stock certificates that mean nothing. They fit up rich looking offices and if they're exposed they get a new sign painted and move to another office or another city."

"Another class of gyp artists work in what is called a 'boiler room,' or 'high pressure room'—with just a telephone and a telephone directory. They have an uncanny skill at picking names out of the book, giving a swift, sugary canvas over the wire—and actually hooking cash out of at least one sucker out of every five they call. Such a crook is known as a 'dynamiter.' His first cousin is called a 'reloader'—who loads another block of stock onto a sucker in the very face of the fact that no dividends have been paid."

"Sucker lists are used by many crook salesmen. You can go to half a dozen places in Wall Street and buy sucker lists for a cent or two cents a name, depending on the class of stock you want to unload. Every time a name goes into a sucker list and the name is sold and resold indefinitely."

Minton has been in Wall Street 43 years and he thinks the public is getting more gullible every day.

REV. GORDON SHOOTSELF; ACT MYSTERY

Episcopal Clergyman of New York Found Dead From Bullet Wound

New York, Jan. 12.—The motive for the apparent suicide of Rev. Dr. Percy Gordon, former assistant rector of the St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church, whose body was found yesterday in a bath tub in his apartment in the Hotel Walcott, remained undiscovered today. There was a bullet wound in his right temple and the contents of the chamber empty, lay beneath his right hand. The contents of the two letters found near the body and evidently written shortly before he had shot himself was not made public. One letter was directed to Dr. Parka, rector of St. Bartholomew's, and the other to Dr. Gordon's son, an under-secretary of the American embassy in Paris.

WOULD RAISE INCOME TAX; LOWER OTHER

Proposed to Reduce State General Fund Property Levy Through This Method

RATES ARE EXPLAINED

New Measure Before Committee Would Raise $1,500,000 To $2,000,000 a Year

BILL INTRODUCED.
Senator Thorson, this afternoon, introduced in the senate the income tax bill prepared by the state tax committee's office and already before the joint tax committee and the house and senate for brief discussion. The bill was referred to the committee on taxes.

In income tax law designed to bring half the amount raised by the present state general property tax was before the legislative committee on tax and tax laws today, proposed by the state tax commission's office.

The proposed law was explained in detail to the committees in joint session last night by representatives of the tax commission's office.

The proposed law anticipates revenue of $1,500,000 a year to $2,000,000 a year, which would cut the general fund levy of about $9,000,000 in half or more, Lyman A. Baker, of the tax commission's office, informed the committees.

A tax of 3 or 3 1/2 on corporation net income and a graduated tax of 1 to 6 per cent on individual income above exemptions was suggested. A 3 percent corporation tax, it was estimated, would raise $700,000 to $800,000 in normal year, the individual income tax $800,000 to $1,200,000, it was estimated.

The bill follows the line of model income tax law drawn by the National Tax Association which is being urged for passage in all states in order that property shall not be taxed twice or any property escape taxation, Mr. Baker said.

The individual rates proposed in the bill are: on all net income above exemptions and not in excess of $2,000, a tax of one percent; income $2,000 to $4,000, tax 2 percent; income $4,000 to $6,000, tax 3 percent; income $6,000 to $8,000, tax 4 percent; income $8,000 to $10,000, tax 5 percent; on net income above $10,000, tax of 5 percent.

Exemptions would be at present—$1,000 for single person, $2,000 for a married person with $200 for each dependent.

Under the bill, a single person with an income of $2,000 a year would pay a tax of 1 percent, or $1,000, or $10. A married person with a like income would pay nothing.

A single person with an income of $10,000 a year would pay 5 percent rate on $9,000, or $450 a year. A married person would pay $400 a year.

There are four main defects in the present income tax law of the state, the legislators were told. First there are too many exemptions, particularly bank deposits, income from loans on mortgages; second, the personal property off-set, by which one can pay income taxes with personal property tax receipt; third, the rates are too low compared to cost of collection; fourth, the provision with respect to corporations doing an interstate business is not clear, there now being a disputed claim of $100,000 with such a corporation.

The state income tax would, it was explained, be in addition to the federal income tax.

Non-residents Exempt
It was provided in the measure that non-residents would not be subject to the tax, the intent being not to tax income derived particularly from farm mortgages made in North Dakota by persons living outside the state. One purpose, it was explained, was so that the mortgage rate would not be increased by the state withdrawal from the state, and also because of the theory that property should be taxed in the state of residence.

The revenue from the income tax would be increased both by the increase in rate on individuals and by removing many deductions now permitted.

Among the items proposed to be exempted are: proceeds of life insurance policies and contracts paid upon death of insured; amount received as a return of premiums on non-payment of annuity contracts; value of property acquired by gift, bequest (but the income from such property shall be taxed); interest upon bonds, warrants, etc., of U. S. or state or sub-divisions; workmen's compensation; salaries of U. S. or state; income from deposits in North Dakota banks and from loans on North Dakota real estate when payable to a foreign corporation.

Sub-Committee Named
Following the outline of the bill before the joint tax committee a sub-committee of five was named, including Chairman Thorson of the senate committee and Chairman Jardine of the house committee, to work over the measure and report to the whole committee. The sub-committee began discussion of the bill with Gordon V. Cox, income tax attorney for the state department, and may be in position to report soon.

RELIEF ASKED FOR GROWER IN THE NORTHWEST

House Adopts Resolution Stating that Wheat Grower Has Suffered Injustice

SOME BILLS ARE KILLED

"Robinson Bills" Are Reported For Indefinite Postponement by Judiciary

The house of representatives went on record this afternoon as favoring action by the National Congress for emergency relief for wheat growers of the Northwest, when it adopted the concurrent resolutions offered by Rep. Jackson, Independent, Ramsey county.

In adopting the resolution the house declared that injustice was done to the wheat grower in that the fixed price of wheat during the war was less than the price it would have sold at without price-fixing while the price on things the farmer bought was not fixed, declared the principle of government aid to industry such as provided in the Esch-Cummings railroad law and ship subsidy was consonant with American principles, declared recognition of the fallacy of a "general policy of price-fixing in times of peace except to correct an injustice done to a large portion of our population and memorialized Congress for legislation but declared it supported no specific legislation now pending before congress.

Rep. Voel, Nonpartisan, McLean, declared when the resolution came before the house on report of the state affairs committee that the purpose of the resolution was to sidetrack and prevent declaration in favor of price fixing by the government on wheat.

Rep. Jackson denied this, asserting the purpose was to build up a case based on facts, to show Congress that the condition of the wheat farmer of the Northwest is different than that of other lines of industry, that he has been discriminated against and that it was right that people to whom he had contributed under such discrimination now contribute to him.

Rep. Twichell, chairman of the state affairs committee, said the resolution had the unanimous approval of the committee, and that the majority present at the meeting when approval was voted were Nonpartisans. Following action on this resolution the house indefinitely postponed a resolution of Rep. Rustad declaring in favor of a fixed minimum price on wheat.

Monument Bill Killed.
The house received its first committee reports on bills and quickly killed six of them in short order. Several were bills supported by former Judge Robinson and introduced by Rep. Paul Johnson. Because the judiciary committee felt that at this time the state could spend money to better advantage than by placing a memorial stone in the Washington (Continued on Page 6)

PRIVATE FUNDS TO COMPLETE SHOALS DAM

The bill appropriates six million nine hundred ninety-eight thousand dollars for work during the next year and in addition authorizes the secretary of war to incur obligations on contracts to the amount of $10,501,200.

DEFER ACTION PENDING PROBE OF HOODED KLAN

When the senate committee having the bill introduced by Senators Sperry and McCoy aimed at the Ku Klux Klan met this morning to take up consideration, Senator Sperry informed the senators that he desired time to obtain information from Louisiana and other states to be presented to the committee in its consideration of the measure, before action was taken. Because of this consideration of the measure was postponed.

As complete reports as possible on the activities of the Ku Klux Klan are to be presented.

DIGNIFIED LEGISLATORS APPOINTED PAGES AND MESSENGERS OF THIRD HOUSE IN BIENNIAL FUN FESTIVAL

Organization Completed with Log-Rolling and Hot Political Battles in which Mose Rosenzweig Emerges as Speaker And Then Finds Fun in Naming Senators and Representatives as Employees

If you never were a buck private and had a second lieutenant order you around, and then when you got back in civilian life found the second lieutenant was working for you—if you've never had this fun nor saw a worm turn—perhaps you'll not appreciate the fun the third house had when it organized in the state capital late yesterday.

For the first thing the speaker of the third house did, after the election of the legislature who compromise this body, had organized, was to name six senators and three representatives as pages, messengers and a sergeant-at-arms.

There was dignified Senator Rusch of Fargo showing amazing speed in answer to the tap-tap-tap of a member of the third house calling for a page; there was Life Twichell with out his cigar carrying a lead pencil to a member; there was Senator Frank Ployhar standing at solemn attention as sergeant-at-arms, and, to crown it all, there was Speaker Mose Rosenzweig calling with lordly gesture upon Representative Trubshaw of Valley City to bring him a glass of water—and getting it.

It was a lot of fun to turn tables on the all-powerful senators and representatives. It was a triumph for Mose Rosenzweig. Mose has been page, messenger boy, assistant clerk and about everything that takes lots of orders in the legislature. But this time he was the speaker of the third house. He demanded service, and got it from his bosses of every day life, who showed they were good sports.

His Triumph Threatened
The day of triumph of Mose was threatened before it was well started however. After diligently campaigning and calling numerous caucuses in his campaign for speaker of the third house Mose was "fished" by Wall Cushing, at normal times editor of the Beach Advance and now chief clerk of the house, and cunning in politics, and Ernie Warner, secretary of the board of administration did it.

They put a woman—a pretty woman—up against Mose. They jabbed him when they rushed through the rules of the 1895 session of the third house which gave the speaker 51 per cent of the power. Mose got 25 votes to his opponent's eight, but the speaker declared Mrs. Florence Wallace elected. Mose was crestfallen. His face dropped and he crouched down in his seat. Mrs. Wallace ascended the rostrum—and then did the gracious thing. She resigned and asked the third house to unanimously elect Mose. The house could not refuse her request. Mose brightened, a smile spread from ear to ear, and Mose was so eager to get to the speaker's chair that he met the oncoming escort of lady stenographers with open arms.

His Job, Says Mose.
"You're here to see the first and second house pass good laws," declared Mose.

EXPERT URGES TRAINED MEN TO EMIGRATE

America Offers Greater Opportunity to Qualified Than To Unskilled Labor

Stockholm, Jan. 12.—The emigration from Sweden of highly qualified engineers, expert foresters and agriculturalists, of especially trained industrial workmen rather than of unskilled laborers and ordinary farmers, is recommended by Dr. Adrian Molin, an authority on the subject of emigration. Since there must be emigration of some kind, argues Dr. Molin, it would be better for the home country, and would insure greater success for the emigrants themselves, if those who establish a new domicile in America and elsewhere were persons of professional or technical equipment.

Swedish statistics show that, between the ages of 15 and 50, there are now 200,000 more persons engaged in gainful occupations than there were in 1913. This surplus has been taken care of partly by increased work in the industrial world, and partly by emigration, while the remainder, about 88,000, at the end of 1922, are unemployed and must to a certain extent be supported by the state.

One movement toward providing more employment is the settlement and exploitation of undeveloped crown and church lands, especially in the northern districts, but the success has so far been doubtful, and the opponents of the plan point out that an increase in the number of farmers will eventually mean a smaller income per capita.

Dr. Molin thinks that the time is ripe for government to take action of emigration with a view toward its control. He deplores the haphazard methods which at present obtain in the difficulties of work under new conditions in a new country. He also considers it unwise for persons accustomed to a cold or temperate climate to undertake hard physical labor in a tropical country.

American immigration laws will in the future, it is believed, restrict the stream of emigrants from Sweden.

Poincare Warns Chamber Not To Expect Results Too Soon

England Continues to Condemn Movement of French Troops

STATE OF SEIGE
Essen, Germany, Jan. 12.—General Degoutte today issued a proclamation from Duesseldorf establishing a state of seige throughout the newly occupied territory.

The German laws, it was stipulated, would remain in force.

(By the Associated Press.)
Paris, Jan. 12.—France at last has a grasp on the "productive guarantee" she has sought from Germany and has served notice through her premier that she is prepared to extend her holdings if economic occupation of Essen does not yield satisfactory results.

It was understood here today in fact that another Ruhr zone would be subjected to "invisible occupation" within three days.

Premier Poincare in his statement in the chamber of deputies warned the nation not to expect the opening of the Ruhr treasury house would be followed immediately by a flood of gold. He asserted it probably would be sometime before the control commission on efforts could be noticeably productive.

Make Evacuations.
The Ruhr banks, Le Matin says, have been ordered to evacuate the Coal Syndicate, by removing their securities and most of their deposits. It is reported that most of the evacuations have been foreseen and that measures have been prepared which will punish such acts and frustrate the Germans' purpose.

If the newspapers reflect public opinion yesterday was undoubtedly regarded as a red letter day by the majority of Frenchmen. No misgivings for France's stand are noticeable except among the radical critics of the government who do not believe that the firm policy of M. Poincare can have beneficial results.

The stock markets are nowhere as settled unfavorably and the franc shows a tendency to increase in value.

FRANCE CONDEMNED.
London, Jan. 12.—An unmistakable feeling of relief that the first 24 hours of France's Ruhr adventure passed without a breach of the peace was evident here today.

Although the movement continued to be widely condemned and deplored there is no general desire to see Great Britain's ally involved in conditions which would seriously add to her burdens and above all which would lead to bloodshed.

This attitude is reflected in some of the comments in the morning newspapers which mention with approval the conciliatory tone of General Degoutte's proclamation to the Ruhr valley inhabitants.

The newspapers also endorse such indication of British good will to France as this government decision to allow the French troops to cross the British Rhine zone.

Although a majority of the press opposed any operation by Great Britain in the Ruhr and criticizes anew what the French regard as a serious French blunder it cannot be ignored that there exists in Great Britain a strong anti-German sentiment and it is unquestionable that there would be considerable—if secret—popular satisfaction if France's contention that Germany is bluffing about her inability to pay be proved by the outcome of events.

ENTRENCHED TOGETHER.

London, Jan. 12.—The serious spectacle of the French and German fighting a common enemy on the shores of the Baltic is expected from today's developments in the topsy turvy European situation, a result of the Lithuanian advance on Memel.

The troops, composed for the most of Germans and the French troops entrenched in the outskirts of the city, will resist the Lithuanian raiders, according to agencies received here.

The British government has associated itself with the French in protesting to Lithuania on the advance on Memel and a British cruiser has been dispatched thither.

40,000 RETURN TO WORK.
Essen, Germany, Jan. 12.—The 40,000 employees of the Krupp plant here went to work this morning as usual, according to information officially supplied to the French economic mission by German authorities.

Strikers are reported in Bochum, but the percentage of strikes is small, it was declared.

The French have moved their troops to Gelsenkirchen three miles northeast of Essen, and to Belver, five miles southwest.

PREPARED TO TAKE MORE GERMAN SOIL

States Infantry, who are now preparing to bid farewell to this lovely spot on the be-castled Rhine. They are the last of the American forces on European soil, and it is the end of their perfect day.
While the news of the withdrawal of the Americans was officially confirmed only this morning, it was known yesterday afternoon through the message of the Associated Press telegraphed from Paris and speeded through the city. The word reached a dance given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, where the German wives and sweethearts of many of the American troops were among the dancers. They raised their voices in tearful lamentations. It was a blow to Coblenz, and today the face of every man, woman and child expressed a personal grief.
The world wide political significance of the departure of the troops, however, is apparently lost to all save the commanding officers. Real sadness is evinced in a message sent to Major Henry T. Allen tonight, by the head burgo-master in the name of the people of Coblenz. The message ends:
"We are sorry to see you leave. We do not know how we can do without you, nor what will happen to us soon. We are sorry to see the Americans go, leaving us so excited, and at such a dreadful time. However, we trust matters will right themselves, and we wish all the big things to General Allen and his troops."

Washington, Jan. 12.—American soldiers who have married German girls and who have been ordered to return home from the Rhineland, will be able to bring their wives with them, although the women are not, under the new law, citizens of the United States until they have taken out naturalization papers.

About 67,000 immigrants from Germany can be admitted to the United States annually under the new immigration law and records show that in December, only 48,000 had come in. That makes it more than likely to enter before the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

Jane Novak's delicate blonde beauty is superbly set forth against a background of sturdy characters in her first R-C starring vehicle "Colleen of the Pines," now being shown at the Capitol theatre. Miss Novak is a type of strong appeal and numbers her admirers by thousands. Her skillful interpretations of out-door girl characters have established her as an artist of high standing in the realm of the cinema and, according to critics she is at her best in "Colleen of the Pines." The story is full of big situations.

ELTINGE

For thrills, both melodramatic and emotional, there has not been a motion picture production made in years that can compare with "Brawn of the North," the second Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production starring Strongheart, the wonder dog, which is showing at the Eltinge today and tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

Brawn is a dog owned by Marion Wells who goes to the north country to aid her brother and fiancé to develop a mine. The wild country has exposed her fiancé for what he really is—a petty souled—rascal—and a fight ensues from Marion's refusal to marry him, in which the brother is killed and the fiancé is drowned as far as Marion knows. But he comes back and Brawn evens the score for the brother's death, and later when Marion is happily married to the hero the dog rescues her baby from a pack of starving wolves.

And the wolves are really there, more than a dozen of the gaunt beasts that live up to the reputation of being sharks of the wooded country. The way in which they play their part in the vital drama is a tribute to the genius of Mr. Trimble in getting animals to do exactly what is required to give a story genuine entertainment value.

The organist who plays these chimes was forced recently by hard times to apply for an increase in wages. When his application came before the city council it met with opposition from the Communist aldermen because of their political objections to the selections played on the bells. Not only they maintained, "Always Be Honest and Upright," being chimed forth, but the organist even went so far as to play "Deutschland über Alles" on national holidays. The bourgeois representatives overruled these objections in favor of the organist, expressing themselves ready to live up to the "honest and upright" sentiment in their dealings with their employees.

The Garrison church was built by Frederick William I, the first king of Prussia, and silencing of its chimes would mean almost as great a hardship in the lives of Potsdam's natives as would the closing of the gates to Sans Souci.

States Infantry, who are now preparing to bid farewell to this lovely spot on the be-castled Rhine. They are the last of the American forces on European soil, and it is the end of their perfect day.

While the news of the withdrawal of the Americans was officially confirmed only this morning, it was known yesterday afternoon through the message of the Associated Press telegraphed from Paris and speeded through the city. The word reached a dance given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, where the German wives and sweethearts of many of the American troops were among the dancers. They raised their voices in tearful lamentations. It was a blow to Coblenz, and today the face of every man, woman and child expressed a personal grief.

The world wide political significance of the departure of the troops, however, is apparently lost to all save the commanding officers. Real sadness is evinced in a message sent to Major Henry T. Allen tonight, by the head burgo-master in the name of the people of Coblenz. The message said:

"We are sorry to see you leave; we do not know how we can do without you, nor what will happen to us soon. We are sorry to see the Americans go, leaving us so excited, and at such a dreadful time. However, we trust matters will right themselves, and we wish all the big things to General Allen and his troops."

CAN BRING WIVES

Washington, Jan. 12.—American soldiers who have married German girls and who have been ordered to return home from the Rhineland, will be able to bring their wives with them, although the women are not under the new law, citizens of the United States until they have taken out naturalization papers. About 67,000 immigrants from Germany can be admitted to the United States annually under the new immigration law and records show that on Dec. 1, only 48,000 had come in. That makes it possible for more to enter before the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

The transport St. Mihiel will sail from New York at noon today for Antwerp where she will take aboard the American troops. It was said at the war department today that definite decision to send the ship to Antwerp had been reached, although Major General Allen commanding the army of occupation, had not yet acknowledged the cabled instructions sent him yesterday to prepare for immediate evacuation of his entire command. The wives of returning American troops will not be able to find accommodations aboard the St. Mihiel it is believed, as General Allen's force, including his staff of officers, is more than sufficient to take up all available space.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

Jane Novak's delicate blonde beauty is superbly set forth against a background of sturdy characters in her first R-C starring vehicle "Colleen of the Pines," now being shown at the Capitol theatre. Miss Novak is a type of strong appeal and numbers her admirers by thousands. Her skillful interpretations of out-door girl characters have established her as an artist of high standing in the realm of the drama and, according to critics she is at her best in "Colleen of the Pines." The story is full of big situations.

ELTINGE

For thrills, both melodramatic and emotional, there has not been a motion picture production made in years that can compare with "Brown of the North," the second Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production starring Strongheart, the wonder dog, which is showing at the Eltinge today and tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

Brown is a dog owned by Marion Wells who goes to the north country to aid her brother and fiancé to develop a mine. The wild country has exposed her fiancé for what he really is—a petty souled rascal—and a fight ensues from Marion's refusal to marry him, in which the brother it killed and the fiancé is drowned as far as Marion knows. But he comes back and Brown evens the score for the brother's death, and later when Marion is happily married to the hero the dog rescues her baby from a pack of starving wolves.

And the wolves are really there—more than a dozen of the gaunt beasts that live up to the reputation of being sharks of the wooded country. The way in which they play their part in the vital drama is a tribute to the genius of Mr. Trimble in getting animals to do exactly what is required to give a story genuine entertainment value.

OPPOSED BELL RINGER'S PLEA FOR WAGE BOOST

Potsdam, Jan. 12.—"Always be honest and upright." So runs a familiar old German song, the music of which chimes regularly from the lofty tower of the famous Garrison church of Potsdam. Away down below, in the vaults of the edifice, rest the bodies of Frederick the Great and his father Frederick William I. The organist who plays these chimes was forced recently by hard times to apply for an increase in wages. When his application came before the city council it met with opposition from the Communist aldermen because of their political objections to the selections played on the bells. Not only they maintained, was "Always Be Honest and Upright," being chimed forth, but the organist even went so far as to play "Deutschland Uber Alles" on national holidays. The bourgeois representatives overruled these objections in favor of the organist, expressing themselves ready to live up to the "honest and upright" sentiment in their dealings with their employees. The Garrison church was built by Frederick William I, the first king of Prussia, and silencing of its chimes would mean almost as great a hardship in the lives of Potsdam's natives as would the closing of the gates to Sans Souci.

FORMER JUDGE SEES MENACE OF NEW WAR

J. H. Clarke Urges Nation to Reconsider League of Nations Issue

New York, Jan. 12.—The work that J. H. Clarke of Youngstown, Ohio, set out for himself when he resigned his seat on the bench of the United States Supreme Court, was formally launched when he delivered the key note address at the first meeting of the Non-Partisan Association for the League of Nations.

The jurist, whose resignation on the grounds that he might so better serve humanity, was made until he deemed it the opening of a campaign for the Democratic nomination for President in 1924, addressed an intent audience made up in almost equal parts of Democrats and Republicans.

He opened with a fling at political partisanship which he declared, had defeated the League of Nations in America—a defeat that he declared already had proved "a great misfortune," and that, uncorrected, would result in permanent disaster to our country.

"The subject never had a fair hearing in the United States," he declared, "for as soon as it appeared, it became immersed in party politics with all the misinterpretations and misrepresentations on which that implies. It is the purpose of the organization for which I am speaking to do what it can to lift this fateful question out of the morass of party politics and to candidly submit it to our country, the President and Senate for reconsideration upon its merits."

"Our recent congressional elections," he continued, "are interpreted by men of all parties as showing an unrest—a deep and widespread political, moral, social and economic discontent—such as has seldom been seen in our favored land."

"There is one thing, however, upon which we all agree. That is that after two years of isolation, of holding aloof while our former allies and friends have been sinking deeper and deeper into poverty and despair, America is profoundly dissatisfied. No taunt wounds us so deeply as the suggestion that in pride of wealth and material power, our country is losing, if indeed, it has not lost, its soul. The conscience of the United States is troubled within us."

Turning from the moral to a more practical plane, Justice Clarke pictured America as standing on the brink of the most disastrous of all wars, and argued that since this was the case, America could lose nothing, and might gain much, by entering the League.

"General Pershing," he said, "who speaks for us the authoritative word on the subject, is urging our people to prepare for the next war."

"Secretary of the Navy Denby declares that we must have a navy second to none in the world—in preparation for the next war."

"Secretary of War Weeks advises Congress that our army has been reduced below the safety limit. He read that our national safety requires that it shall be increased—in preparation for the next war."

"The President of the United States in his message on December 8th commends to Congress a proposed survey of a plan to draft all the resources of the republic, human and material, for national defense so that we shall be prepared for a universal call to armed defense in the next war."

"General Pershing," he said, "who speaks for us the authoritative word on the subject, is urging our people to prepare for the next war."

Dignified Legislators Appointed Pages And Messengers

clared Mose, and then finding the rules of the third house of 1895, began appointing employees without the approval of the house. He named Senator Porter, chaplain. He appointed Senators Steel, Eastgate, Rusch and Van Camp and Representative Trubshaw as pages; he named Representatives Paul Johnson, Twichell, Senator Levang and Representative Wait as messengers, and he gave Senator Ployhar the envied post of sergeant-at-arms. D. E. Shipley was named chief clerk and Mose called for resolutions.

Up went a dozen hands and forward it was run and jump went the pages. Mr. Cushing called on Page Trubshaw for a glass of water and Mose, not to be outdone, directed Rep. Trubshaw to bring a glass of water to the rostrum. Page Trubshaw speeded up.

One of the first resolutions referred to the Little Bldg. between Representatives Trubshaw and Vogel, proposed that in order to get funds to finance the mill and elevator at Grand Forks the two senators meet in the prize ring, the proceeds to go to the mill and elevator association.

Hearty applause greeted a resolution for a committee to investigate reports that Miss Nellie Daugherty, representative from Ward county was 27 years old. Surely the press was mistaken, and the committee was instructed to learn if it were not instead twenty-one.

Where the Hon. Shines Best Another resolution referred to the passage by the house of a resolution asking congress not to permit weakening of the Volstead act and wanted a committee to "find out if the members who voted for the resolution practice what they preach and preach what they practice."

The ladies of Bismarck introduced a resolution to learn why Late Twichell, handsome and single, had escaped the holy bonds of wedlock on frequent trips to the state capital despite the fact that he was noted for insisting good looking stenographers being employed. All the lady members got on the committee—and none declined the appointment.

Another member wanted a committee to find out whether the bald heads in the legislature got scalped in political battles or at the hands of an angry woman.

Still another remembered that Rep. Hempel passed around the oranges during the session two years ago, and a committee was asked to inquire if he were going to do so again—and also why he had omitted the lady stenographers from his calling list.

Quis Mrs. Craig Member Cushing, with an eye to increasing the popularity of the bad lands at least temporarily and thus the subscription list of his newspaper, wanted an appropriation of a million dollars to level off this stretch of country. A resolution also inquired how Tom Hall acquired all the beautiful gold teeth and another wanted to know whether when Rep. Mrs. Minnie Craig accused the house of fiddling away its time she was speaking figuratively or literally.

Everybody in the third house wanted to be on a committee asked for in a resolution. The resolution recited that since there are reports that certain people know where the moon shines west, a committee was wanted to find out "where the moon shines best."

Some Choice Committees Mose rose to every occasion. The last time a resolution was introduced to the committee on music and noise. The Vogel-Trubshaw resolution went to the committee on chickens and livestock and all others went to appropriate committees.

This was the finish of the third house, but the start was not less breezy. Ernest Wanner called the house to order, since he was chief clerk at the last session.

"I move we adopt the rules of the 1895 session of the third house," said member Cushing.

"I object," said Mr. Shipley. "This is a little premature."

"Well, 1895 is not very premature, I guess," ejaculated Wanner, and the rules were adopted.

Ned Hedalen placed Mose Rosen-sweig in nomination, and lauded his services to the state.

Three-Nominated Then Member Cushing threw the bombshell by putting forth the name of Mrs. Wallace. And C. R. Verry nominated Walt Cushing. D. E. Shipley, Mose's campaign manager, who was denied the privilege of nominating him, seconded the nomination in a flowery speech, and asserted that since the state of North Dakota embarked on a long program in 1817 to lead the state out of darkness a Moses was needed to carry on.

Mr. Shipley answered with heat the charge brought against Mose because of his trip to the Orient recently and declared that since immigration was a big topic at this session Mose was the boy for speaker—when the Romans are playing because when he went to China, he poked—he does as the Romans do. became a Chinaman; when he went to the Fiji islands, he became a Fiji; handling of the finances and a lot of when he went to France he became fun at the third house dances this a Frenchman, and when he is in Rome winter.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

MEN 40 OR MORE

Henry Ford speaking: "A man's career doesn't really begin until he is around 40. When he is 40 years old, a man has just about reached the age when he may begin to think seriously about making money."

Ford's idea is that the average man cannot expect to accumulate much of a fortune in the first 40 years of life, so those who have reached this age without much to show for it should not be discouraged.

Up to 40, as Ford sees it, a man's chief function in life is to gain experience. "He should be learning all he can; particularly HOW to spend money. As I told you two weeks ago, the best advice I can give to a young man anxious to succeed is: Spend your money—on yourself; get all the experience you can. Don't try to save money and be a miser."

Knowledge and experience are working capital to an individual, just as surely as money in the bank. With $10,000 and no experience, the average man going into business for himself is more apt to go broke than make a success.

Knowledge and experience are even more important than money. To get them, costs money.

Obviously, Ford is not suggesting that we go out and fling our money to the four winds. Observe that he says, spend it ON YOURSELF. What to buy? Good books, education, travel that brings knowledge.

Ford himself is 59. He was nearly 40 before he began giving much thought to building up a fortune. Previously to that, he had been busy—spending his money experimenting and increasing his fund of information.

He didn't spend on foolish amusement, billiards, baseball betting, raiisjack and clothes beyond his means. He invested his dollars in increasing his mechanical knowledge, in developing a definite campaign of action in a certain industry, and in acquiring the knowledge of human nature necessary to enable him to market his product, Ford cars.

Now he is "cashing in" on that early investment in himself. Indirectly he had always been saving and accumulating.

The thing to guard against is "spending on ourselves" in the wrong way.

EASY PICKING

The song, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," is still piling up royalties through it was written 48 years ago by Hart P. Danks.

This comes to light in a lawsuit in Brooklyn, N. Y. The famous song is said to have sold 2,000,000 copies.

Between 1915 and 1920, when it had one of its periodical popular runs after a long sleep, it earned royalties of $50,000.

Danks, the composer, died back in 1903. But his song still lives. Maybe if you could come back to earth in the year 2000, you'd find people still singing it—though possibly under a different name, stolen by a plagiarist.

Men live on, in their good and bad deeds, as surely as they survive through their children.

When Danks wrote "Silver Threads Among the Gold," in 1874, he had no idea what he was starting. He did not even dream that 19 years after his death, his widow would be in court fighting over the royalties.

Back of this is a definite principle. The principle is this: Growth of success, like growth of crops, takes time. Right now we are sowing seed. The real harvest will not come until years later.

Thus the pay we are making today may not be as important as the returns we'll get, later on, from experience we are acquiring today. Young men on their first jobs, and younger ones still in school, should keep this in mind.

Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller and nearly all other super-rich men are cashing in now on early effort.

This law of Deferred Payment or later harvest works another way—reaping the weed-crop of past mistakes.

Many of us, cursing our present misfortunes (poverty, sickness or general wretchedness), are placing the blame on the general state of affairs in 1922. Simple truth is, that we may be merely paying the penalty of past mistakes.

The harvest comes surely, whether it is good or bad, whether wheat or weeds.

It may be too late now to rectify past mistakes. But we can prevent their recurrence. The far-sighted man realizes that right now he is building for the future as much as the present, and that effort which seems fruitless now will yield big profits later.

Live for tomorrow. This is the key to all things really worth while.

DELUSION

Davis, secretary of labor, observes a general belief that work with the hands is menial, something disgraceful and to be avoided. He blames "our pursuit of the theoretical in education" and "the exclusion of the practical."

Laziness, an outcropping of human nature, has more to do with it than education. You cannot educate anyone to like hard work. That's something that has to be born in the blood.

MURDER

One American in every 12,000 is murdered each year. In England the figure is only one in 412,000. This is pointed out by Sir Basil Thomson, former head of Scotland Yard detectives.

Putting it another way: Most murders are committed with pistols. In our country, anyone can get a pistol. In England they cannot be sold without licenses and a license is never given to a private person.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE COST OF CHICAGO'S RACE RIOTS

During the three and one-half years that have elapsed since the midsummer race riots of 1919 the people of Chicago have been occupied with many matters of more immediate interest. But they have just been forcibly reminded of the horrors of that week of bloodshed. They have had occasion once more to consider soberly the length of the death list before the state militia restored order.

For the city council has been clearing up the death claims arising out of the 1919 race riots. It has been a long time about it. Previously the city had paid $20,800 in settlement of five death claims. Eighteen more, amounting to $81,000, were approved last week. In fifteen other cases death claims still remain unsettled.

The committee of investigation accounted for thirty-eight deaths. In addition, 543 persons were injured—178 whites, 348 negroes and 17 of unidentified race. During the reign of lawlessness the destruction of property was heavy. On top of all, Chicago has had to bear its share of the expense of maintaining 6,000 state troops for the nine days they were put on guard because of the helplessness of the police. Aside from this large item, Chicago stands to pay in the end over $500,000 because of the 1919 race riots.

In the light of the circumstances, the mere payment of money in any sum must seem an almost futile form of punishment for the community. The worst penalty must be that the record of that week of wholesale crime cannot be effaced or the disgrace visited upon the city diminished by any form of reparation for which it may accept responsibility. —New York World.

IT CAN SPARE THE BLACK SHEEP

A gentleman (why not?) who is described as the "doctor of the films," whatever that may be, remarks that "The people of the films are just great, big-hearted children," while the apologist for a comedian who wishes to reinstate himself in public opinion, says of his protegee's misadventures: "He merely got into a jam."

Now everyone knows that a great majority of men and women who earn their living in the motion pictures are decent-folk, whose lives compare with the average in any other walk of life. They suffer, as everyone else does, from the behavior of the disreputable minority whom the industry well can spare.

It certainly is too bad the way public morality jumps on these great, big-hearted kiddies who smear themselves and their messy troubles all over the courts. Life for them, as the public now perceives, is one "jam" after another the result of their high childish spirits and the naive abandon of youthful experience. What do you do when a child misbehaves that way? You punish him. What do you do if he persists in making himself objectionable to all around him? You either spare the rod or spoil the child.

The question arises then whether society should pick up the fallen idols of the motion picture world and kiss them, thereby spoiling them, or whether they should get a sound licking and be sent packing to the nursery to learn better manners.

If these great, big-hearted children of the disreputable minority have not yet learned the distinctions of morality and decency they are too young to be playing desperate emotionalism on the screen. If, through pure innocence, they wander into "jams" which offend public taste and outrage public decency their lack of sophistication bars them from adult employment of this sort which, eventually, is bound to violate their childlike simplicity and wistful anxiety to avoid the mere suggestion of misbehavior. The industry has enough men and women of good character and equivalent ability to be able to spare the black sheep.—Detroit News.

THE FISHERMAN AND THE GENIE

BISMARCK AND THE FUTURE

By H. S. Lobach

Imagination is the eye of the mind, things not yet present, ideas not yet realized. Imagination precedes and is the cause of all achievement. The sculptor sees his finished statue in the block of marble before he sets a chisel to the stone. The painter's completed picture glows in his mind before he lifts a brush.

So it is with all human achievement. First, the picture in the mind; then the realization. Bismarck's canvas is on the easel. We are the painters who are to paint her destiny. The beauty of the painting depends on the strength of the picture we have in our imagination.

The mind's eye looks back to the dim past and sees the prairie schooner wending its dusty way westward—yes, even farther back—to the Indian on a hunting excursion from the South. By chance or by instinct, he comes to the hills on the east bank of the "Old Muddy" and shading his eyes with his hand he looks north, he looks south, east and west, and the vision pleases him. He says: "We will build our village here," and he builds.

Time slips on; the white man comes by schooner and ox team; the river stops him, and he camps. More come, and they make a settlement, then a town; later great wagon trains with mule teams, accompanied by soldiers. The railroad is laid. The Indian is driven out, and a city is born—and such a city.

ship, he could not purchase an adverse interest in his client's property for his advantage prejudicial to his client's interest.

Action in District Court, Moun-

High land to the north and west, whereon to build the state's majestic structures; beautiful homes and parks extending to the river, athletic grounds and amusement parks to the south toward the river, while on the low land east and south great gardens, agricultural experiment stations and nurseries have been established (irrigated by the state's new plant), supplying the state with perfect seeds, trees and bushes of all kinds. Directly east, modern factories and shops stand in rows well back from the street with beautiful lawns dotted with flower beds. No smoke darkens the beauty of the sunshine, for this is a modern city—where smoke and soot are consumed ere they leave the stack.

The business district covers many solid blocks; great wholesale houses ship to all parts of the state, not only by well-equipped railroads but by thoroughly established auto truck lines going in every direction on perfectly built and maintained roads.

The educational system is the envy, not only of other cities, but of other states as well. Denominational colleges, conservatories of music and schools of art teach the young mind and prepare it for any calling.

Thus the artist paints the picture of Bismarck and Bismarck's future in his mind's eye. The beauty of the realization depends on the strength of the vision and on the concerted and concentrated effort of the painters.

Senate Calendar

S. B. 15, Baird, Stark (Ind.). — Would transfer $21,286.61 out of any moneys in the state hail insurance fund to the hail insurance operating fund, for paying the unpaid bills incurred by the hail insurance department during the year 1922. The measure was introduced at the request of the hail department, an accompanying letter to Senator Baird explaining that cost of adjusting claims in 1921 when there were 39,000 hail losses was greater than the $10,000 expenses allowed by the emergency commission by the amount asked. (Appropriations.)

S. B. 16, Whitman, Grand Forks, (Ind.). — Would establish a state board of chiropractic examiners of three to be appointed by the state board of medical examiners, setting up requirements under which "foot doctors" would be required to pass proper examinations and be licensed under a fee of $25.00 per annum, naming penalties for failure to comply with the law and prescribing the power and duties of the board. Forfeiture by the N. D. Medical Association. (Public Health Com.)

S. B. 17, Ruseh, Cass, (Ind.). — Appropriating $8,250 for the purchase and installation of "one complete stoker unit under modern boiler at the N. D. A. C." The emergency clause attached calls attention to the necessity of proper testing coal burned at the institutions of the state and it is therefore desirable that such an apparatus be installed immediately. (Appropriations Com.)

Senate Bills Passed
S. B. 6, 7, 8, Stevens, Ramsey (Ind.) providing for the elimination of separate ballot boxes for men and women's votes, eliminating orders to county officers to furnish two sets of ballot boxes, and amending the law to read "any person" instead of "any male," clearing up the discrepancies in individual statutes and the general equal suffrage act. No opposition.

House Calendar
H. B. 26, Johnson, Pembina, (Ind.). — Would limit the fees and expense accounts of sheriffs to actual expenses and not to exceed 10 cents per mile actually traveled, the sheriff to pay expenses out such mileage allowance, and eliminating all other fees now charged. (State Affairs.)

H. B. 27, Hanson, Grand Forks, (N.). — Amends Section 3239 (1913) relating to the frequency of holding election for county seats. The present statute provides that where the county seat is not located on a "navigable river or railroad," no election may be held for four years after an original attempt to move the county seat. The measure is particularly aimed at Sioux county where Selfridge has contested against Port Yates for removal of the county seat. Selfridge is on a railroad, Port Yates on a navigable river. In H. B. 27 "navigable river" is deleted from the statute. In the recent election the town of Solen entered the race and split the vote of Selfridge when received over 525, Port Yates 400 odd and Solen 120 or more. Under the amendments proposed a removal of county seat must be voted on at a primary election and if more than two candidates towns are listed the two highest shall go on the general election ballot. (Committee on Counties.)

H. B. 28, Helbling, Morton, (N.). — Is an act for reimbursement of $1,863.09 from funds of the Home Builders association on to the family of Frank Lee, deceased, formerly a member of Home Buyers League No. 1 at Mandan. A house was built for Lee, but contract has never been delivered it is said, Lee died and his wife and children have gone to Wisconsin to live with relatives and in dire need of the money. (Appropriations.)

H. B. 29, Hanson, Grand Forks, (Ind.), Larkin, Foster-Eddy, (N.). — Tightens up statutes governing the conduct of judges of district, justice and all courts, grants and suspends sentences. Permits of suspending fine and sentence only in cases of first offense, but makes payment of the fine or serving of the sentence mandatory in case of subsequent law violations. (Judiciary.)

H. B. 30, Boyd, Dakota, (Ind.). — Is an act providing for the appropriation of not to exceed $100,000 under the state aid statutes for highway construction, for the North Dakota share of the cost of erecting a bridge over the Red River between Fargo and Moorhead, Minn., payable from passage of the act and June 31, 1925. The measure carries an emergency clause. (Appropriations Com.)

Bills Passed House
Concurrent resolution, Jackson, memorializing congress to pass legislation which would stabilize the price of wheat and other farm produce and urging the necessity of such legislation at the earliest possible moment.

Bills Killed in House
H. B. 2, Jackson, Appropriating $500 for North Dakota stone in Washington monument.

H. B. 4, Johnson, Pembina, providing that a sheriff on foreclosure sale may dispose of the land and the use of the land for year of redemption separately permitting debtor or owner to thus maintain possession.

H. B. 6, Johnson, Pembina, preventing valuation of negotiable paper secured through fraud, deception or without fair and adequate consideration.

H. B. 12, Jackson, providing for amendments to present statutes on directed verdicts.

All four measures were recommended indefinitely postponed by the house judiciary committee and the report adopted.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

Nancy and Nick and Dusty Coat called all the Dreamland people around them.

"I wonder what's going to happen next," whispered Wally Woodchuck to Scramble Squirrel. Scramble had only come for a week's stay, but Wally intended to stay all winter. Some people are luckier than others. Just like going on a two weeks' vacation and finding that everybody else can stay as long as he likes.

Well, anyway, Nancy and Nick had an idea and called everybody to hear it.

"We're going to have school," Nancy announced.

"Oh, shucks," said Wally to Scramble. "That isn't what I came for."

"Me either," agreed Scramble, edging closer the better to hear.

"Don't look so cross everybody," laughed Nancy. "This is a new kind of school. It's a school where everybody may talk as much as he likes and say anything he pleases. I'll be teacher and Nick will be principal."

Everybody sit down please.

"So everybody sit down."

"Mr. Jack Jumping Mouse will please recite," she went on.

Jack Jumping Mouse, now grown as large as a kanaroo since he came to Dreamland, got up. Then he looked about cautiously. "It's about Censor the Cat I wish to speak," he whispered, "and I don't wish him to hear. Has he gone yet?"

"Yes," spoke up Dusty Coat, the fairy sandman. "He only comes and goes when he's taking short cat naps. Besides he always changes to Fuss-in-Boots when he comes. But he never stays long."

"Then," said Jack Jumping Mouse jumping up to the platform, "this is my speech: 'I dislike owls, also the cat. For they've both found out where I live at. I wished in Dreamland I could stay. For it's safer than the meadow and a stack of hay.'"

"That's all I know," said he with a bow. "Fine," cried everybody, clapping.

Miss Catherine Margaret Ehr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ehr of Minot became the bride of Henry Joseph Brosnahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brosnahan of Carrington Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock at St. Leo's church of Minot. Rev. Fr. J. J. Raith read the marriage service. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played as a processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as a recessional. During the nuptial mass at the offertory Miss Gertrude Ehr and Dr. M. F. Farley sang "Gaudete Virgo" by Novella and during the communion and the nuptial blessing Miss Ehr and Dr. Farley sang "Ave Marie."

The bride wore a street dress of fawn colored tulle with a white plume. Her hat was of pale green with a white plume, her gloves matched her hat while her pumps and hose harmonized with her gown. Her corsage bouquet was a combination of Columbia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Elizabeth Ehr was attired in a frock of navy blue taffeta with accessories to match. Immediately following the ceremony a three course wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, covers being laid for 14 persons.

Rep. Ehr's Daughter Married at Minot

Miss Catherine Margaret Ehr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ehr of Minot became the bride of Henry Joseph Brosnahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brosnahan of Carrington, Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock at St. Leo's church of Minot. Rev. Fr. J. J. Raith read the marriage service. Although Mr. Ehr is a busy legislator at the state capital he dropped his duties in the house chambers in order to be present at his daughter's marriage. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Ehr, the bridegroom by James Hennessey of Minot. The procession was led by the maid of honor followed by the bride on the arm of her father who came from the rear of the church and were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his attendant. Mrs. Katherine Baker presided at the organ and Prof. Arturo Petrucci played the violin obbligato for the special nuptial music. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played as a processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as a recessional. During the nuptial mass at the offertory Miss Gertrude Ehr and Dr. M. F. Farley sang "Gaudete Virgo" by Novelle and during the communion and the nuptial blessing Miss Ehr and Dr. Farley sang "Ave Marie." The bride wore a street dress of fawn colored duvetyne trimmed with beaver. Her hat was of jade green with a white plume, her gloves matched her hat while her pumps and hose harmonized with her gown. Her corsage bouquet was a combination of Columbia roses and lillies-of-the-valley. Miss Elizabeth Ehr was attired in a frock of navy blue taffeta with accessories to match. Immediately following the ceremony a three course wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, covers being laid for 14 persons.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER (Established 1873)

MEN 40 OR MORE Henry Ford speaking: "A man's career doesn't really begin until he is around 40. When he is 40 years old, a man has just about reached the age when he may begin to think seriously about making money."

Ford's idea is that the average man cannot expect to accumulate much of a fortune in the first 40 years of life, so those who have reached this age without much to show for it should not be discouraged.

Up to 40, as Ford sees it, a man's chief function in life is to gain experience. "He should be learning all he can; particularly HOW to spend money. As I told you two weeks ago, the best advice I can give to a young man anxious to succeed is: Spend your money—on yourself; get all the experience you can. Don't try to save money and be a miser."

Knowledge and experience are working capital to an individual, just as surely as money in the bank. With $10,000 and no experience, the average man going into business for himself is more apt to go broke than make a success.

Knowledge and experience are even more important than money. To get them, costs money.

Obviously, Ford is not suggesting that we go out and fling our money to the four winds. Observe that he says, spend it ON YOURSELF. What to buy? Good books, education, travel that brings knowledge.

Ford himself is 59. He was nearly 40 before he began giving much thought to building up a fortune. Previously to that, he had been busy—spending his money experimenting and increasing his fund of information.

He didn't spend on foolish amusement, billiards, baseball betting, ransinjak and clothes beyond his means. He invested his dollars in increasing his mechanical knowledge, in developing a definite campaign of action in a certain industry, and in acquiring the knowledge of human nature necessary to enable him to market his product. Ford cars.

Now he is "cashing in" on that early investment in himself. Indirectly he had always been saving and accumulating.

The thing to guard against is "spending on ourselves" in the wrong way.

EASY PICKING

The song, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," is still piling up royalties through it was written 48 years ago by Hart P. Danks.

This comes to light in a lawsuit in Brooklyn, N. Y. The famous song is said to have sold 2,000,000 copies.

Between 1915 and 1920, when it had one of its periodical popular runs after a long sleep, it earned royalties of $50,000.

Danks, the composer, died back in 1903. But his song still lives. Maybe if you could come back to earth in the year 2000, you'd find people still singing it—though possibly under a different name, stolen by a plagiarist.

Men live on, in their good and bad deeds, as surely as they survive through their children.

When Danks wrote "Silver Threads Among the Gold," in 1874, he had no idea what he was starting. He did not even dream that 19 years after his death, his widow would be in court fighting over the royalties.

Back of this is a definite principle.

The principle is this: Growth of success, like growth of crops, takes time. Right now we are sowing seed. The real harvest will not come until years later.

Thus the pay we are making today may not be as important as the returns we'll get, later on, from experience we are acquiring today. Young men on their first jobs, and younger ones still in school, should keep this in mind.

Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller and nearly all other super-rich men are cashing in now on early effort.

This law of Deferred Payment or later harvest works another way—reaping the weed-crop of past mistakes.

Many of us, cursing our present misfortunes (poverty, sickness or general wretchedness), are placing the blame on the general state of affairs in 1922. Simple truth is, that we may be merely paying the penalty of past mistakes.

The harvest comes surely, whether it is good or bad, whether wheat or weeds.

It may be too late now to rectify past mistakes. But we can prevent their recurrence. The far-sighted man realizes that right now he is building for the future as much as the present, and that effort which seems fruitless now will yield big profits later.

Live for tomorrow. This is the key to all things really worth while.

DELUSION

Davis, secretary of labor, observes a general belief that "work with the hands is menial, something disgraceful and to be avoided. He blames "our pursuit of the theoretical in education" and "the exclusion of the practical."

Laziness, an outcropping of human nature, has more to do with it than education. You cannot educate anyone to like hard work. That's something that has to be born in the blood.

MURDER

One American in every 12,000 is murdered each year. In England the figure is only one in 412,000. This is pointed out by Sir Basil Thomson, former head of Scotland Yard detectives.

Putting it another way: Most murders are committed with pistols. In our country, anyone can get a pistol. In England they cannot be sold without licenses and a license is never given to a private person.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

THE COST OF CHICAGO'S RACE RIOTS

During the three and one-half years that have elapsed since the midsummer race riots of 1919 the people of Chicago have been occupied with many matters of more immediate interest. But they have just been forcibly reminded of the horrors of that week of bloodshed. They have had occasion once more to consider soberly the length of the death list before the state militia restored order.

For the city council has been clearing up the death claims arising out of the 1919 race riots. It has been a long time about it. Previously the city had paid $20,800 in settlement of five death claims. Eighteen more, amounting to $31,000, were approved last week. Fifteen other cases death claims still remain unsettled.

The committee of investigation accounted for thirty-eight deaths. In addition, 543 persons were injured—178 whites, 348 negroes, and 17 of unidentified race. During the reign of lawlessness the destruction of property was heavy. On top of all, Chicago has had to bear its share of the expense of maintaining 6,000 state troops for the nine days they were put on guard because of the helplessness of the police. Aside from this large item, Chicago stands to pay in the end over $500,000 because of the 1919 race riots. In the light of the circumstances, the mere payment of money in any sum must seem an almost futile form of punishment for the community. The worst penalty must be that the record of that week of bloodshed cannot be effaced or the disgrace visited upon the city diminished by any form of reparation for which it may accept responsibility. —New York World.

IT CAN SPARE THE BLACK SHEEP

A gentleman (why not?) who is described as the "doctor of the films," whatever that may be, remarks that "The people of the films are just great big-hearted children." "The filmologist for a comedian who wishes to reinstate himself in public opinion, says of his protegee's misadventures: "He merely got into a jam." Now every one knows that a great majority of men and women who earn their living in the motion pictures are decent-folk, whose lives differ from the average in only one particular. They suffer, as everyone else does, from the misbehavior of the disreputable minority whom the industry well can spare.

It certainly is too bad the way public morality jumps on these great, big-hearted kiddies "who smear themselves and their movies all over the public eye. Life for them is the public nose perceives, is one "jam" after another, the result of their high children spirits and the naive abandon of youthful experience. What do you do when a child misbehaves that way? You punish him. What do you do if he persists in making himself objectionable to all around him? You either spare the rod or spoil the child.

The question arises then whether society should pick up the fallen idols of the motion picture world and kiss them, thereby spoiling them, or whether they should get a sound licking and be sent packing to the nursery to learn better manners.

If these great, big-hearted children of the disreputable minority have not yet learned the distinctions of morality and decency they are too young to be playing desperate emotionalism on the screen. If, through pure innocence, they wander into "jams" which offend public taste and outrage public decency, their lack of sophistication bars them from adult employment of this sort which, eventually, is bound to violate their childlike simplicity and wistful anxiety to avoid the mere suggestion of misbehavior. The industry has enough men and women of good character and equivalent ability to be able to spare the black sheep. —Detroit News.

SPORTS

AGGIES HAVE 17 GAMES AT BASKETBALL

Stiff Schedule for Team Is Completed by Athletic Director Borleske

Fargo, Jan. 12.—With a seventeen game schedule, including a ten day trip through South Dakota and Iowa, ten conference games, games with St. Thomas and Simpson college, Coach "Ad" Dewey of North Dakota Bison tosses believes his team will have a tough as well as interesting schedule.

Athletic Director Borleske has practically completed his schedule the only tentative dates being with St. Thomas on Feb. 16 and 17. Borleske has not decided whether he will take both games or only one. These games would precede the university games Feb. 22 and 23 and he does not want to tire out the men with strong games too close together.

South Dakota university will invade the Bison territory for the first conference games of the season for the local team Jan. 19 and 20. The only other conference games at home are with the university quintet on Mar. 9 and 10. Jamestown college, Concordia, St. Thomas, and the K. of C. offer the other home games. Macalester athletic authorities and Borleske could not get together on a date so the Macs had to be dropped from the schedule this year.

A squad of two complete teams with Coach Dewey will leave Jan. 24 for the ten day trip through South Dakota and Iowa, where South Dakota State will be encountered at Brookings Jan. 26 and 27 for the second set of conference games. Morningside and Des Moines universities, both conference teams, will be taken on in Sioux City and Des Moines, respectively. While in Des Moines, the Bisons will mix with Simpson college.

The state high school tournament will be held again in the Bison armory with Borleske as director, on March 16 and 17, and the district tournament on March 2 and 3.

Red Sox Infield Is Big Problem Before Chance

By NEA Service.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11.—In assuming the management of the Boston Red Sox, Frank Chance accepts about the toughest assignment in baseball. As the Red Sox team now stands it is just a fair minor league club. There is only one feature about taking charge of the Sox that is to the advantage of Chance; the fact that the club finished a bad last in 1922.

Any position in the race other than last place will be regarded as a step of progress. Chance has said that he will be satisfied with nothing worse than sixth in his first year and would like to hear the second division.

Chance's biggest problem is his infield. As a matter of fact he hasn't any infield. There are a lot of infield candidates in the Boston roster but few of them stand out as capable regulars.

Getting through an infield will be Chance's first big job, then comes polishing up the pitching staff, the catchers and the outfield.

BULLSEYES OF BASEBALL

Freak plays always create discussion. Baseball abounds in such situations.

To Catcher Eddie Ainsworth goes the credit of pulling the freshest bit of lace running I have ever seen. Ainsmith who is now catching for the St. Louis club of the National League was a member of the Washington club when he put over his bit of base running extraordinary.

Philadelphia was playing at Washington, and had a home team badly beaten. Chief Bender was doing the pitching for the Athletics.

When Ainsmith singled in the ninth after two were out, the score was something like 13 to 2 in favor of the Athletics.

On the first ball pitched Ainsmith stole second without any opposition. On the second ball he stole third. No one paid any attention to him. The next pitch was a strike, making the count two balls and a strike.

Then some wag in the grandstand started all the trouble by yelling, "Why don't you steal home, Eddie?"

Ainsmith decided to do that very thing. As Bender started his windup, Ainsmith dashed for the plate. The run meant nothing in the game, and Bender seeing the humor of the situation, decided to let Ainsmith get away with the play.

When Ainsmith slid over the plate in safety, Bender was still winding up. Ainsmith had gotten to his feet, brushed off his uniform, and was half way to the bench, doffing his cap to the mock applause of the crowd, before Bender finally delivered the ball.

All would have been well if the batsman didn't offer at the pitch, but he elected to swing, and fled out to left field, retiring the side.

Most of the fans left the park believing Ainsmith had stolen home, when as a matter of fact the run didn't count. Ainsmith's steal started with the windup, which ended in the batter flying out for the final out, and no runs can score on a

KNUCKLE BALL ROMMEL'S BIG ASSET

Facts About Pitcher Who Won 27 Games With Seventh Place Team

HOW ROMMEL HOLDS HIS FAMOUS KNUCKLE BALL.

By Billy Evans.

Ed Rommel's feat in winning 27 games for a team finishing seventh in the American League race was unquestionably the outstanding pitching feat of the American League last season.

Rommel was probably as good a pitcher in 1921 as he was last year, yet few people were talking about him then. The reason, of course, is that he didn't win 27 games in 1921.

Since the close of last season Rommel has been the most-talked-about figure in baseball. Pitching for the Athletics, a confirmed tailender for seven years, Rommel took down 27 victories. In other words, Rommel was the main reason why the Athletics finished seventh instead of last in 1922.

What kind of a pitcher is this fellow Rommel? Rommel certainly must have a world of stuff? What about that knuckle ball? Would Rommel ever lose a game with a first division club? These and scores of other questions involving the greatness of Rommel have been fired at me since the close of the season.

Rommel Is Peculiar Type. Ed Rommel is the peculiar type of a great pitcher. To the fan, sitting in a comfortable seat in the stand, it is probably impossible for him to figure why Rommel isn't hit much harder. His speed appears to be ordinary, and his control perfect when he wants it to be.

Rommel has good—but not burning—speed. I venture to say that 80 per cent of the American League pitchers have a better fast ball than Rommel. His curve is snappy, but not any better than most of the other good pitchers in the majors.

play in which the batsman fails to reach first for the third out, as was the case in this play.

Chance Rejects Pennock Deal

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11.—The New York Americans evidently intend to be fortified with left-handed pitchers the coming season.

Not content with Jake May, the star of the Coast League last season, Huggins is anxious to make a deal for Herb Pennock, the one star of the Red Sox pitching staff.

Chance is desirous of getting Norman McMillan for third base and Huggins has said he can have him even up for Pennock.

While Chance is anxious to get together a capable infield, real zing the Sox are weak in that department, he cannot see Pennock for McMillan.

"The Sox pitching staff is none too strong and to let Pennock go would be a big mistake, despite the fact that McMillan would greatly help us. Just now there isn't a chance for the Yankees to get Pennock."

Why then the remarkable success that Rommel attained in 1922? Rommel boasts the most deceptive knuckle ball in the American League. Other pitchers have developed a good knuckleball, but none that I have ever seen compares with that of Rommel.

It is so difficult to handle that Cy Perkins, one of the best catchers in the game, drops ball after ball with never hit his glove. Cy works on the theory that the essential thing to do is stop the ball rather than catch it.

With most pitchers, the knuckle ball is a last resort, the delivery to go to in the pinch. With Rommel the knuckle ball is his chief stock in trade. This is made possible because of the great control that Rommel has of not only the knuckle ball but also his fast one.

Has Great Control. Usually with a good hitter up, Rommel goes to work on him with the knuckle ball. He may waste two or three knuckle balls without getting the batter to offer at them. Then it is that his great control proves his value. It never seems any great trouble for Rommel to come back with a couple of fast ones to get on even terms with the batter. With the call three balls and two strikes, Rommel invariably slips up the knuckle ball.

A most unusual knuckle ball, good control, plenty of nerve and the ability to field, explains Rommel's success. No infielder in the game can handle ground balls more cleverly.

When he is pitching, the Athletics have five infielders in the game. Add to this a keen mind and you have the formula for Ed Rommel's success.

McGraw Seeks Three New Stars For The Giants

By NEA Service.

New York, Jan. 11.—Manager McGraw of the New York Giants is never content to stand pat no matter how strong his team may appear on paper.

It is said that McGraw, while satisfied with his infield, feels that the outfield, pitching staff and catching department could stand some strengthening.

Having that in mind it is said McGraw has designs on three National League stars.

Eddie Roush of Cincinnati would fit in nicely in the Giants' outfield, according to McGraw. Roush would probably welcome a change to New York.

Always strong for Pitcher Lee Meadows of the Phillies, McGraw is said to be again angling for the bespectacled star twirler.

Now that Pittsburgh has placed Catcher Schmidt on the market, Mc-Graw would not be averse to purchasing him. However, Barney Dreyfus may pass up any proposition that will strengthen the Giants.

Wagner Hard For Matty

New York, Jan. 11.—During his recent visit to New York in behalf of the Red Cross drive on tuberculosis, Christy Mathewson was asked what batsman was hardest for him to pitch to during his long career in the National League.

"I had to work carefully on all the good hitters," was Matty's modest reply, "but Hans Wagner was my biggest troublemaker. I always breathed a sigh of relief when we got rid of Honus."

The National League records certainly bear out the impression that Mathewson had of Wagner. Covering a period of 16 seasons, Wagner went to bat 327 times against Matty and made 106 base hits for an average of .320.

Wagner's mark against the pitcher generally regarded as the greatest twirler of all time is something to be proud of.

Basketball Quiz

WRONG BASKET.

If a player loses his sense of direction and cages the ball in his opponent's basket, does it count for the opposition?

It certainly does. That is the penalty for pulling such a boneheaded play, which by the way comes up several times every year.

TOSS-UP.

When the referee tosses the ball up for the centers, it is necessary that both players jump and make an effort to touch the ball to make the play legal?

It is not, but if the ball is tapped by some player other than the jumpers, the referee should toss it up again and order both players to jump and make a real attempt to tap the ball. Failure to comply with the order can be construed by the referee as a foul on one or both for delaying the game.

FOOT POSITION.

What must be the position of the feet when jumping from center or elsewhere for the ball? Often players shift feet as the ball is about to be tossed and so position themselves that they interfere with their opponent. In some cases they actually step on their opponent's feet as a handicap. Is this legal?

The feet of the jumper must be within his half of the circle. Such action described is not to be permitted. No player would be able to get away with it very long with a wide-awake referee.

OUT OF BOUNDS.

May a player dribble the ball while part of his person is touching the floor out of bounds?

No. The ball goes to the opposition the moment it is carried out of bounds, at that very point.

DOUBLE FOUL.

How is the ball put in play after a double foul has been called? The ball is dead after each of the two free throws on a double foul. The ball is put in play at center by a toss-up.

DRIBBLE.

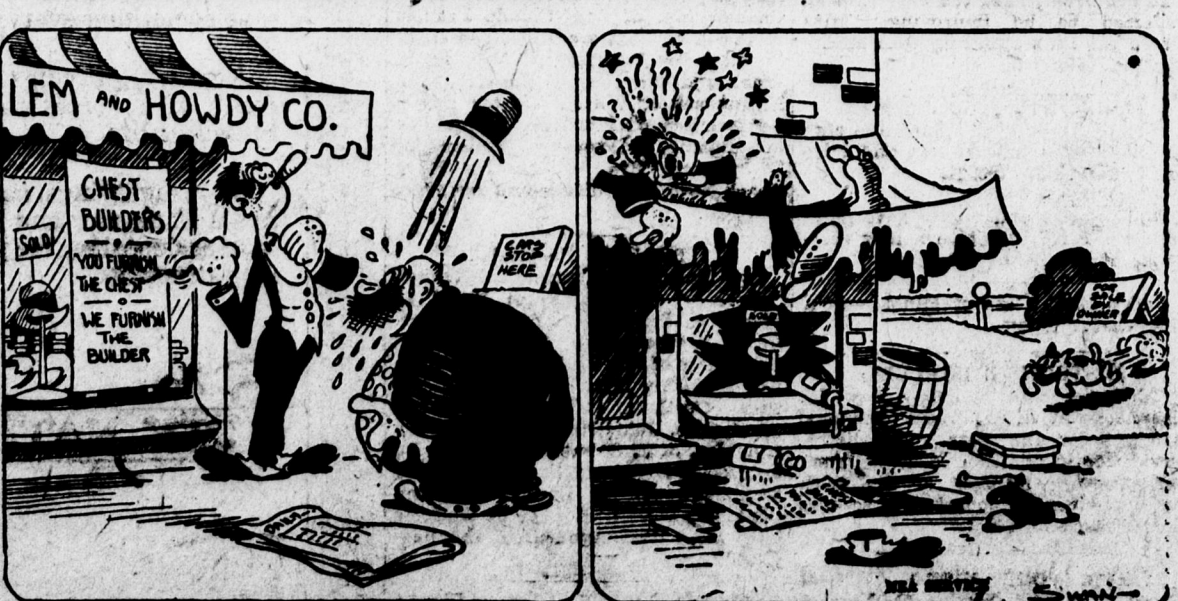

If a player is standing still and bounces the ball on the floor, does that constitute a dribble?

It is so regarded by the referee.

SALESMAN $AM The Necessary Part Missing BY SWAN

Spool of Thread Pays Month's Rent

Berlin, Jan. 12.—What to do when the rent came around puzzled the tenant of a seven-room house at Celle, Westphalia, when he was short of money, until he happened to think of several spools of sewing machine left on hand from purchases made before the war. The tenant pays 900 marks annually for the house and the quarter's rent amounted to 225. His offer to pay the landlord with one spool of thread was accepted, the tenant receiving 10 marks cash in change since this thread now sells for 235 marks a spool. Before the war, the spools cost him 30 pfennigs each. A federal law limits the prices that may be charged for rent; thread follows the dollar rate of exchange. "A Town Without a Telephone" is the dubious title acquired by Mehrstedt, a place of 400 inhabitants situated in Thuringia. Up to recently Mehrstedt boasted at least the usual central toll station but one day when the mail carrier came along and officially carried off its sole apparatus. None of the residents feels he can afford the luxury of a connection, so all now have to wait for the mails to let them know "how the dollar stands."

EXPOSITION OF RESOURCES TO BE BIG EVENT

Elaborate Plans Made For North Dakota Natural Resources Day at Capitol

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the program on North Dakota Natural Resources Day to be held at 2:30 o'clock Saturday, January 13, in the house chambers. The program was ordered by concurrent resolution of the Senate on the basis that many members of the Assembly were uniformed concerning the wealth of natural resources in the state.

E. G. Wanner, secretary of the State Board of Administration, W. J. Church and William Watt, members of the State Budget Board, and Governor Nestos, have personally directed the preparation of the program. Headliners in various industries are scheduled to take part.

The program will open with selections by an orchestra followed by public singing under the leadership of Frank S. Gale. Mr. Gale will also be on the program for a vocal solo. The first address of the afternoon will find Governor R. A. Nestos outlining his ideas concerning the development of the mineral resources of the state. He will be followed by Dean E. J. Babcock of the State School of Mines, who will deliver the chief talk of the afternoon. L. P. Sinner of the Fuel Economy Engineering Co. of Chicago is listed for an address on what may be done with lignite coal. An expert on stoking apparatus.

Speaks For Coal Men.
G. W. Stewart of Wilton, an officer of the North Dakota Lignite Coal Operators' Association, and the president of the North Dakota Press Association, will speak on the activities of the coal operators and outline the progress that has been made in coal mining in the state within the last year, citing statistics on how North Dakota profited through the national soft coal strike.

Dr. John L. Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, will speak on the wealth of agricultural resources of the state, and Professor Howard D. Simpson, State Geologist, will talk on oil discoveries and artesian wells. Dr. Simpson, it is understood, has made an intensive study of the oil possibilities.

Exhibit of Dean Babcock.
In connection with the program, extensive exhibits will be made. Miss Margaret Cable, head of the Ceramic Department of the State University of Minnesota, will exhibit a special exhibit of pottery and chinaware which has been made from North Dakota clay. A section of the main hall on the third floor of the capitol has been reserved for a working exhibit with Miss Cable in charge. She will be giving and demonstrating how china ware and pottery is formed and manufactured.

Dean Babcock and the School of Mines will have an exhibit including the various types of lignite coal and briquettes made from the coal mined in the state. Mr. Babcock has some years been in charge of the Experimental Briquetting Station at Hebron and has developed means whereby the native coal may be manufactured commercially.

Children's Exhibit.
One of the largest exhibits of natural resources—the work of the children—will be given overflow space for exhibits in all parts of the capitol building. Miss Bertha Palmer of the State Education department is in charge of this display and has already a large number of exhibits of the work of school children in various counties on the walls of the Legislative Assembly floor of the State House. Notable among these is the exhibit of the children from the primary grades in Stark county, which includes a large variety of posters setting forth the maxims and mottoes which are being taught children in connection with the present health campaign.

The formal program will also include numbers by the pupils of the Bismarck public schools and demonstrations of what is being done in the educational work in the state.

Dean Babcock and Miss Cable arrived from the university yesterday afternoon and are today preparing their sections of the displays.

"I have not said anything to you, but have been saying to others and have induced many to take your medicine and be convinced. May's Wonderful Remedy is correctly named. It removed stuff from me I never thought could be in a human being and I feel like a different person. The pain in my right side disappeared at once, which four doctors said would require an operation; also the bloating and indigestion. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. SPORTS

AGGIES HAVE 17 GAMES AT BASKETBALL

Stiff Schedule for Team Is Completed by Athletic Director Borleske

Fargo, Jan. 12. With a seventeen game schedule, including a ten day trip through South Dakota and Iowa, ten conference games, games with St. Thomas and Simpson, college, Coach "Al" Dewey of North Dakota Black trowsers believes his team will have a tough as well as interesting schedule.

Athletic Director Borleske has practically completed his schedule for the only tentative dates being with St. Thomas on Feb. 16 and 17. Borleske has not decided whether he will take both games or only one. These games would precede the university games Feb. 22 and 23 and he does not want to tire out the men with strong games too close together.

South Dakota university will invade the Bison territory for the first conference games of the season for the local team Jan. 19 and 20. The only other conference games at home are with the university quintet on Mar. 9 and 10. Jamestown college, Concordia, St. Thomas, and the K. of C. offer the other home games.

Macalester athletic authorities and North Dakota could not get together on a date so the Maes had to be dropped from the schedule this year.

A squad of two complete teams with Coach Dewey will leave Jan. 21 for the ten day trip through South Dakota and Iowa, where South Dakota State will be encountered at Brookings Jan. 26 and 27 for the second set of conference games.

Morningside and Des Moines universities, both conference teams, will be taken on at Sioux City and Des Moines, respectively. While in Des Moines, the Bisons will mix with Simpson college.

The state high school tournament will be held again in the Bison armory with Borleske as director, on March 16 and 17, and the district tournament on March 2 and 3.

Red Sox infield Is Big Problem Before Chance

By NEA Service.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11.—In assuming the management of the Boston Red Sox, Frank Chance accepts about the toughest assignment in baseball. As the Red Sox team now stands it is just a fair minor league club.

There is only one feature about taking charge of the Sox that is to the advantage of Chance; the fact that the club finished a bad last in 1922.

Any position in the race other than last place will be regarded as a step of progress. Chance has said that he will be satisfied with nothing worse than sixth in his first year and would like to "beat the second division."

Chance's biggest problem is his infield. As a matter of fact he hasn't any infield. There are a lot of infield candidates in the Boston roster but few of them stand out as capable regulars.

Getting together an infield will be Chance's first big task, then comes polishing up the pitching staff, the catcher, and the outfield.

BULLSEYES OF BASEBALL

Frank plays always create discussion. Baseball abounds in such situations.

To catcher Eddie Ainsworth goes the credit of pulling the freestrike bit of base running I have ever seen. Ainsworth is now catching for the St. Louis club of the National League was a member of the Washington club when he put over his bit of base running extraordinary.

Philadelphia was playing at Washington, and had the home team badly beaten. Chud Bender was doing the pitching for the Athletics.

When Ainsworth singled in the ninth after two were out, the score was something like 13 to 2 in favor of the Athletics.

KNUCKLE BALL ROMMEL'S BIG ASSET

Facts About Pitcher Who Won 27 Games With Seventh Place Team

HOW ROMMEL HOLDS HIS FAMOUS KNUCKLE BALL.

By Billy Evans.

Ed Rommel's feat in winning 27 games for a team finishing seventh in the American League race was unquestionably the outstanding pitching feat of the American League last season.

Rommel was probably as good a pitcher in 1922 as he was last year, yet few people were talking about him then. The reason, of course, is that he didn't win 27 games in 1921.

Since the close of last season Rommel has been the most-talked-about figure in baseball. Pitching for the Athletics, a confirmed tallender for seven years, Rommel took down 27 victories. In other words, Rommel was the main reason why the Athletics finished seventh instead of last in 1922.

What kind of a pitcher is this fellow? Rommel is certainly not a "fast" pitcher. What about that knuckle ball? Would Rommel ever lose a game with a first division club? These and scores of other questions involving the greatness of Rommel have been fired at me since the close of the season.

Rommel is Peculiar Type. Ed Rommel is the peculiar type of a great pitcher. To the fan, sitting in a comfortable seat in the stand, it is probably impossible for him to figure why Rommel isn't hit harder. His speed appears to be ordinary, and his control perfect when he wants it to be.

Rommel has good, but not burning speed. I venture to say that 80 per cent of the American League pitchers have a better fast ball than Rommel. His curve is snappy, but not any better than most of the other good pitchers in the majors.

play in which the batsman fails to reach first for the third out, as was the case in this play.

Chance Rejects Pennock Deal

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11.—The New York Americans evidently intend to be fortified with left-handed pitchers the coming season.

Not content with Jake May, the star of the Coast League last season, Huggins is anxious to make a deal for Herb Pennock, the one star of the Red Sox pitching staff.

Chance is desirous of getting Norman McMillan for third base and Huggins has said he can have him even up for Pennock.

While Chance is anxious to get together a capable infield, repelling the Sox are weak in that department, he cannot see Pennock for McMillan. "The Sox pitching staff is none too strong and to let Pennock go would be a big mistake, despite the fact that McMillan would greatly help us. Just now there isn't a chance for the Yankees to get Pennock."

SALESMAN $AM The Necessary Part Missing

BY SWAN

Why then the remarkable success that Rommel attained in 1922? Rommel boasts the most deceptive knuckle ball in the American League. Other pitchers have developed a good knuckleball, but none that I have ever seen compares with that of Rommel.

It is so difficult to handle that Cy Perkins, one of the best catchers in the game, drops ball after ball with Rommel working. Some of them never hit his glove. Cy works on the theory that the essential thing to do is stop the ball rather than catch it.

With most pitchers, the knuckle ball is a last resort, the delivery to go to in the pinch. With Rommel the knuckle ball is his chief stock in trade. This is made possible because of the great control that Rommel has of not only the knuckle ball but also his fast one.

Has Great Control. Usually with a good hitter up, Rommel goes to work on him with the knuckle ball. He may waste two or three knuckle balls without getting the batter to offer at them. Then it is that his great control proves his value. It never seems any great trouble for Rommel to come back with a couple of fast ones to get on even terms with the batter. With the call three balls and two strikes, Rommel invariably slips up the knuckle ball.

A most unusual knuckleball, good control, plenty of nerve and the ability to field, explains Rommel's success. No infielder in the game can handle ground balls more cleverly. When he is pitching, the Athletics have five infielders in the game. Add to this a keen mind and you have the formula for Ed Rommel's success.

McGraw Seeks Three New Stars For The Giants

By NEA Service.

New York, Jan. 11.—Manager McGraw of the New York Giants is never content to stand pat no matter how strong his team may appear on paper.

It is said that McGraw, while satisfied with his infield, feels that the outfield, pitching staff and catching department could stand some strengthening.

Having that in mind it is said McGraw has designs on three National League stars.

Eddie Roush of Cincinnati would fit in nicely in the Giants' outfield, according to McGraw. Roush would probably welcome a change to New York.

Always strong for Pitcher Leo Meadows of the Phillies, McGraw is said to be again angling for the best of the Phillies, and the house adopted the report. Rep. Jackson protested, saying only North Dakota and Wyoming were not represented in the memorial stones in the monument.

Now that Pittsburgh has placed in the memorial stones in the monument.

Graw would not be averse to purchasing him. However, better offers may pass up any proposition that will strengthen the Giants.

Wagner Hard For Matty

New York, Jan. 11.—During his recent visit to New York in behalf of the Red Cross drive on tuberculosis, Christy Mathewson was asked what batsman was hardest for him to pitch to during his long career in the National League.

"I had to work carefully on all the good hitters," was Matty's modest reply, "but Hans Wagner was my biggest troublemaker. I always breathed a sigh of relief when we got rid of Honus."

The National League records certainly bear out the impression that Mathewson had of Wagner. Covering a period of 16 seasons, Wagner went to bat 327 times against Matty and made 105 base hits for an average of .320. Wagner's mark against the pitcher generally regarded as the greatest twirler of all time is something to be proud of.

Basketball Quiz

WRONG BASKET.

If a player loses his sense of direction and cages the ball in his opponent's basket, does it count for the opposition?

It certainly does. That is the penalty for pulling such a boneheaded play, which by the way comes up several times every year.

TOSS-UP.

When the referee tosses the ball up for the centers, is it necessary that both players jump and make an effort to touch the ball to make the play legal?

It is not, but if the ball is tapped by some player other than the jumpers, the referee should toss it up again and order both players to jump and make a real attempt to tap the ball. Failure to comply with the order can be construed by the referee as a foul on one or both for delaying the game.

FOOT POSITION.

What must be the position of the feet when jumping from center or elsewhere for the ball? Often players shift feet as the ball is about to be tossed and so position themselves that they interfere with their opponent. In some cases they actually step on their opponent's feet as a handicap. Is this legal?

The feet of the jumper must be within his half of the circle. Such action described is not to be permitted. No player would be able to get away with it very long with a wide-awake referee.

OUT OF BOUNDS.

May a player dribble the ball while part of his person is touching the floor out of bounds?

No. The ball goes to the opposition the moment it is carried out of bounds, at that very point.

DOUBLE FOUL.

How is the ball put in play after a double foul has been called? The ball is dead after each of the two free throws on a double foul. The ball is put in play at center by a toss-up.

DRIBBLE.

If a player is standing still and bounces the ball on the floor, does that constitute a dribble?

It is so regarded by the referee.

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Your Guarantee of Service

Red Crown Gasoline Causes Less Carbon—

That's the signed statement of the pilot of the new Mitchell F-50, who ran 10,000 miles with a sealed hood and used Red Crown Gasoline throughout the trip.

He says the spark plugs were as clean as new, the valves sharp and bright, carbon deposit on cylinder head and piston tops was negligible. That's the answer to using a gasoline that burns clean and gives perfect combustion.

On report of the judiciary committee, the house also indefinitely postponed "Judge Robinson bill" defining fraud in sale of negotiable paper and a bill introduced by Rep. Jackson at the request of the legislative committee of the state bar association restoring powers of district judges with relation to directed verdicts, which existed prior to the 1921 session of the legislature. On report of the state affairs committee, the house killed H. B. 7, relating to unfair brokerage commissions on land sale contracts; H. B. 10, providing interest on foreclosure sales be 6 per cent from date of sale, and H. B. 18, another "Robinson bill" declaring intent of the law to protect the weak from the strong.

Janitor Discharged. On report of the employment committee, the house discharged Leo Shafer, a janitor, and employed Peter Schantz. Rep. Harrington, Barleigh county, seconding the motion, said the Bismarck county delegation requested the change, and that it was not aware of Shafer's appointment in the first place.

W. R. Burnett, Dickinson lawyer, has accepted the place of clerk of the judiciary committee. Chairman Starke announced. He was employed on roll-call vote of the house.

A communication from the Cavalier county commissioners requesting change of the law regarding fees to official newspaper for printing delinquent tax sale notices, so lower the cost, was read.

Four bills were introduced. One by Rep. Paul Johnson would limit sheriff's to salary and mileage, eliminating fees. Another by Rep. McGraw was designed to help Bismarck and other Sioux county towns in an effort to take the twenty and from Ft. Yates. Rep. Hobbing, Morton county, asked the legislature to appropriate $1,663.00 to reimburse the estate of Frank Lee, deceased, Mandan, who had paid this amount on a Home Builders' home. Reps. Hanson and Larkin introduced a bill prohibiting judges from granting suspended sentences on the second and third conviction for the same crime. Rep. Boyd, Cass, introduced a bill appropriating $100,000 to aid in construction of a bridge over the Red river at Fargo.

Election Bills Passed. Passage of bills began in the senate yesterday afternoon the three measures introduced by Senator J. E. Stevens of Ramsey county going through without debate. One of these puts the statutory law of the state in line with the women's suffrage amendment to the state constitution, and the other two are to do away with the separate ballot boxes for men and women required by the law at the present time. All three measures were passed unanimously.

Three new bills were also introduced in the senate during the afternoon session. They included one by Senator W. S. Whitman of Grand Forks to require the licensing of chiropractors after examination by a state board which would be established by the act.

Senate Bill No. 17, introduced by Senator Ruch of Cass county, calls for the appropriation of $3,250 for the installation of a mechanical stoker and boiler unit at the state agricultural college at Fargo. S. B. 16, introduced by Senator Baird of Stark county, permits the use of funds now in possession of the hall insurance department to pay up back bills of that institution. The amount involved is $21,284.

Spool of Thread Pays Month's Rent

Berlin, Jan. 12.—What to do when the rent came around puzzled the tenant of a seven-room house at Celle, Westphalia, when he was short of money, until he happened to think of several spools of sewing machine left on hand from purchases made before the war.

The tenant pays 900 marks annually for the house and the quarter's rent amounted to 225. His offer to pay the landlord with one spool of thread was accepted, the tenant receiving 10 marks cash in change since this thread now sells for 235 marks a spool. Before the war, the spools cost him 30 pfennigs each.

A federal law limits the prices that may be charged for rent; thread follows the dollar rate of exchange.

"A Town Without a Telephone" is the dubious title acquired by Mehrstedt, a place of 400 inhabitants situated in Thuringia. Up to recently Mehrstedt boasted at least the usual central toll station but one day when the mail carrier came along and officially carried off its sole apparatus. None of the residents feels he can afford the luxury of a connection, so all now have to wait for the mails to let them know "how the dollar stands."

REICHERT IN COURT DENIES CHARGE MADE

President of Equity Company Claims He was Not Guilty Of Contempt of Court

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 12.—Summoned before District Judge Cole here this afternoon on a charge of contempt of court, C. W. Reichert, president of the Equity Packing company, denied his guilt. Mr. Reichert was charged with having failed to obey the court's order to turn over the packing company's affairs to Ira Larson, named by Judge Cole as temporary receiver.

Usher L. Burdick, a member of the board of the company, made an affidavit that Reichert has misappropriated about $100,000 in notes of the concern, the allegation being based on the declaration that Reichert has refused to turn over the books to Larson. Mr. Reichert declared that he refused to turn over the books without a receipt and checking them.

The president of the company also declares that the company is not insolvent, but is paying up its debts. He asked that the receivership be vacated, and hearing was to continue on this point.

CRISSINGER HEADS RESERVE BANK

Washington, Jan. 12.—President Harding cleared the slate of important pending treasury appointments today by nominating C. R. Crissinger of Marion, Ohio, now comptroller of the currency, to be Governor of the Federal Re-

RUM FEETS BRING SUPPLY TO ATLANTIC

Bootleggers Run Out in Power Boats and Drive Their Bargains

Hyland, N. J., Jan. 12.—The great rum fleet of 22 vessels which bobbed up off Sandy Hook yesterday while the New York dry naval squadron was being reorganized was still standing off the Ambrose channel light shaft ready for business as usual.

While prohibition forces were taking to New York four small boats captured last night while attempting to land from the mother ship, a strict watch was being kept. Although observers ashore estimated that thousands of cases of liquor had been landed last night from the rum fleet presumably hailing from the Bahamas. It had a vast stock to dispose of to bidders putting out from this resort and other places along the coast. Liquor landed last night was reported to have been sent by motor truck to New York and other cities. Whisky, gin, champagne and wine all were offered for sale and keen competition developed among the skippers of the rum ships.

As the bootlegger runs aside in his power boat he surveys the wares of the mother ship and the bottle fishermen say that Scotch whisky of such and such a brand may be had at $15 to $40 per case. Rye was quoted at $35. Champagne was high—of many nations and the crews are of all races. The vessel was loaded to the gunwale with liquor. Bootlegging circles here display no fear despite the capture of four of their crafts last night.

The visiting flozilla flies the flag

One man who escaped capture last night by jumping ashore was ready today to take another of his boats out to the rum fleet.

What do I care for the boat I lost last night, he said laughing. "The pool will pay the insurance for both boats and cargo."

He refused to give details of the pool admitting, however, that there was a powerful runner's organization and all of its members were protected against losses.

GETS 18 MONTHS
Bottineau, N. D., Jan. 12.—Harry Patterson, who confessed that he was the driver of the "death car" which drove into Westhope, N. D., last fall, when the occupants shot and killed Carl Peterson, marshal, during an attempted robbery, pleaded guilty in district court here to burglary and was sentenced to 18 months in the state penitentiary.

Patterson asserted he was acting as driver of the auto, and that he remained sitting in the car on the outskirts of the village while his "passengers" were away on "business." Patterson, together with other members of a gang, two of whom later escaped from a jail at Carrington, where they were held on a charge of auto stealing, was arrested last fall at Kenmare.
